Scientists Probe Cause Of Ranger Camera Failure

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Space scientists sifted through coded tapes today in a search for the reason why spacecraft Ranger 6 plunged into the moon with its cameras blind to the wonders of the lunar landscape.

The agonizing end to a 66-hour flight came at 1:24 a.m. (PST) Sunday when Ranger 6 reached its historic rendezvous — and six television cameras aboard wouldn't function.

Laboratory directors went ahead with plans for Ranger 7's flight — an identical photo mission — pointing out that the Ranger series is designed to gather information needed for manned U.S. landings planned later this decade.

The fruitless journey of Ranger 6 was the sixth straight failure in the Ranger program. The cost to date: $168 million — figures at $28 million a shot.

Ranger 6 was the first of the costly spacecraft to complete the difficult moon-approach maneuver faultlessly — which made the blind crash even more frustrating for its designers.

The camera system was considered one of the simplest mechanisms on the 804-pound spacecraft.

It was turned on by a command flashed from the ground. There was also an automatic timer aboard to do the job. Ranger radioed back word that the order had been received at 1:09 a.m. (PST), as it was nearing the end of a 5,000 m.p.h. plus plunge toward the moon's Sea of Tranquility.

Newsmen and engineers gathered in a big room at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory listened to the tone of Ranger's radio signal as it was being amplified through loudspeakers.

Then when the five-minute warm-up period was over — the emotionless voice of a project engineer announced the first sign that all was not well:

"There is no indication of full video power."

Then, for a tense 600 seconds, the hushed crowd listened to the tone of Ranger's death song, and the engineer's words that it was unavailing:

"Seven minutes to impact — still no video."

"Six minutes to impact — still waiting for video power."

"Five minutes to impact... three minutes — no video."

"One minute to impact — no indication of full power."

And then:

"Five seconds — four—Three—two—one."

Suddenly the musical radio tone ceased.

"Impact! Impact!"

And then:

"No video."

A check of Ranger's radioed messages showed no sign of the code which, run through a computer, would have produced earth's first closeup pictures of the moon. Russia's Lunik 3 photographed the back side of the moon, but from a distance of more than 4,000 miles.

In the world's big observatories, astronomers watched the moon at impact time to see if the crash would produce a flash of light or a puff of moon dust visible from earth.

There was only one report of a possible sighting. At Lowell Observatory in Flagstaff, Ariz., Dr. Karl Raskas, watching with a 21-inch reflector, said he saw a flash of light 50 or 60 miles from the point of impact 90 seconds prior to the impact time.

In Hancock Filings

Brothers' Battle Slated For Ballot

A brother-against-brother contest for the Democratic nomination for sheriff will add a little extra excitement to Hancock County's primary election May 12.

The unusual combination materialized Saturday night when George Rodak of Weirton entered the race for the nomination for sheriff against a brother, Joseph Rodak, who was one of the early entries.

Twenty-three candidates beat the filing deadline at midnight Saturday to create what may be a record-breaking field of 190 local aspirants in the primary.

There were some other surprises in addition to the "brother act" for the Democratic nomination as sheriff.

EDWARD L. Suplee of Weirton withdrew as a Republican candidate for assessor to re-enter as a candidate for county clerk, and the GOP filled its tickets with last-minute action although leaving three posts uncontested.

The Democrats, on the other hand, will have races for every local office, with large fields for a few.

Barring the arrival of additional petitions by mail, the primary field shows 132 Democrats, 43 Republicans and 15 non-partisan candidates for election, not nomination, to the County Board of Education.

The Courthouse in New Cumberland was crowded with political chiefs and observing candidates when the filing deadline arrived at midnight Saturday.

MANY WERE buzzing over the race for the Democratic nomination for sheriff, in which the Rodak brothers are two of six candidates.

George Rodak is a former Weirton City Council member, now employed as custodian of the Weirton Community Center.

His brother, Joseph Rodak, resigned his patrolman's post on the Weirton Police Department to seek his party's nomination as sheriff.

Seeking the Democratic nomination for the post held by Joseph H. Manypenny, who cannot succeed himself as sheriff under state law, are the Rodaks, Donald Chaney of Chester, and James Petrelle, Bert Byers

Ask Total Integration

Pupils Boycott New York Schools Over Race Issue

NEW YORK (AP) — Thousands of Negro and Puerto Rican children, joined by many white sympathizers, boycotted the nation's largest public school system today demanding total integration.

A spokesman for the one-day protest movement estimated that 262,000 pupils participated — about 65 per cent of the Puerto Ricans and Negroes among the one million pupils in New York City schools.

But the city's 850 schools remained open in the face of the demonstration — even those in institutions with high absenteeism and some teachers marching in the civil rights picket lines.

Shortly after class bells rang, authorities reported only about 2,700 pickets outside 300 schools. This was far short of the 8,000 pickets the demonstrators demanded.

Sen. Dirksen Slated For Ulcer Treatment

The aide said Dirksen was expected back in the Senate later this week. He has had trouble with ulcers previously.

Washington Awaits Clarification Over Neutrality For Asia

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials are expected to seek clarification from Paris in the next few days as to what President Charles de Gaulle means in proposing a neutrality treaty for Southeast Asia and what he intends to do about it.

Along with De Gaulle's recognition of Red China, the neutralization plan is a source of deep concern at the highest levels of U.S. government.

From President Johnson down, U.S. leaders are worried about the impact of French moves in the Far East and especially in Viet Nam, where this country has more than 15,000 men engaged in a fight against Communist expansion.

Uncertainty over De Gaulle's proposal was evident in President Johnson's news conference Saturday when, discussing the neutralization plan, Johnson told reporters "you will have to ask Gen. De Gaulle about the details of his proposal."

From other high officials it was learned that the United States does not know precisely what, if any, action De Gaulle has in mind to carry out his proposition. If he is talking about a vague, ultimate goal, perhaps years off, they see no great difficulty. But if he intends now to wage a campaign for neutralization of South Viet Nam, they see serious trouble ahead.

Following up his recognition of Red China last Monday, De Gaulle told a Paris conference

Youth Jailed As Witness In Gaming Case

A youthful East Liverpool meat-cutter who complained to authorities of losing $60 while gambling at a Hancock County tavern early this morning was being held in jail today as a material witness for a hearing tonight for the tavern owner.

Squire John Herron of New Cumberland took unprecedented action in retaining custody of the complaining witness to assure his appearance at the hearing.

Marcy Chestnut, 18, a resident of the YMCA, asked Squire Herron at 2:30 this morning to issue a search and seizure warrant to allow Hancock County sheriff's deputies to investigate his complaint of losing $60 in a blackjack game at the Half Moon tavern on Route 30 east of Chester.

The warrant was issued by the New Cumberland squire and Deputy James Knox visited the Half Moon tavern and confiscated a blackjack table, another table believed used in the game of barbut and some signs.

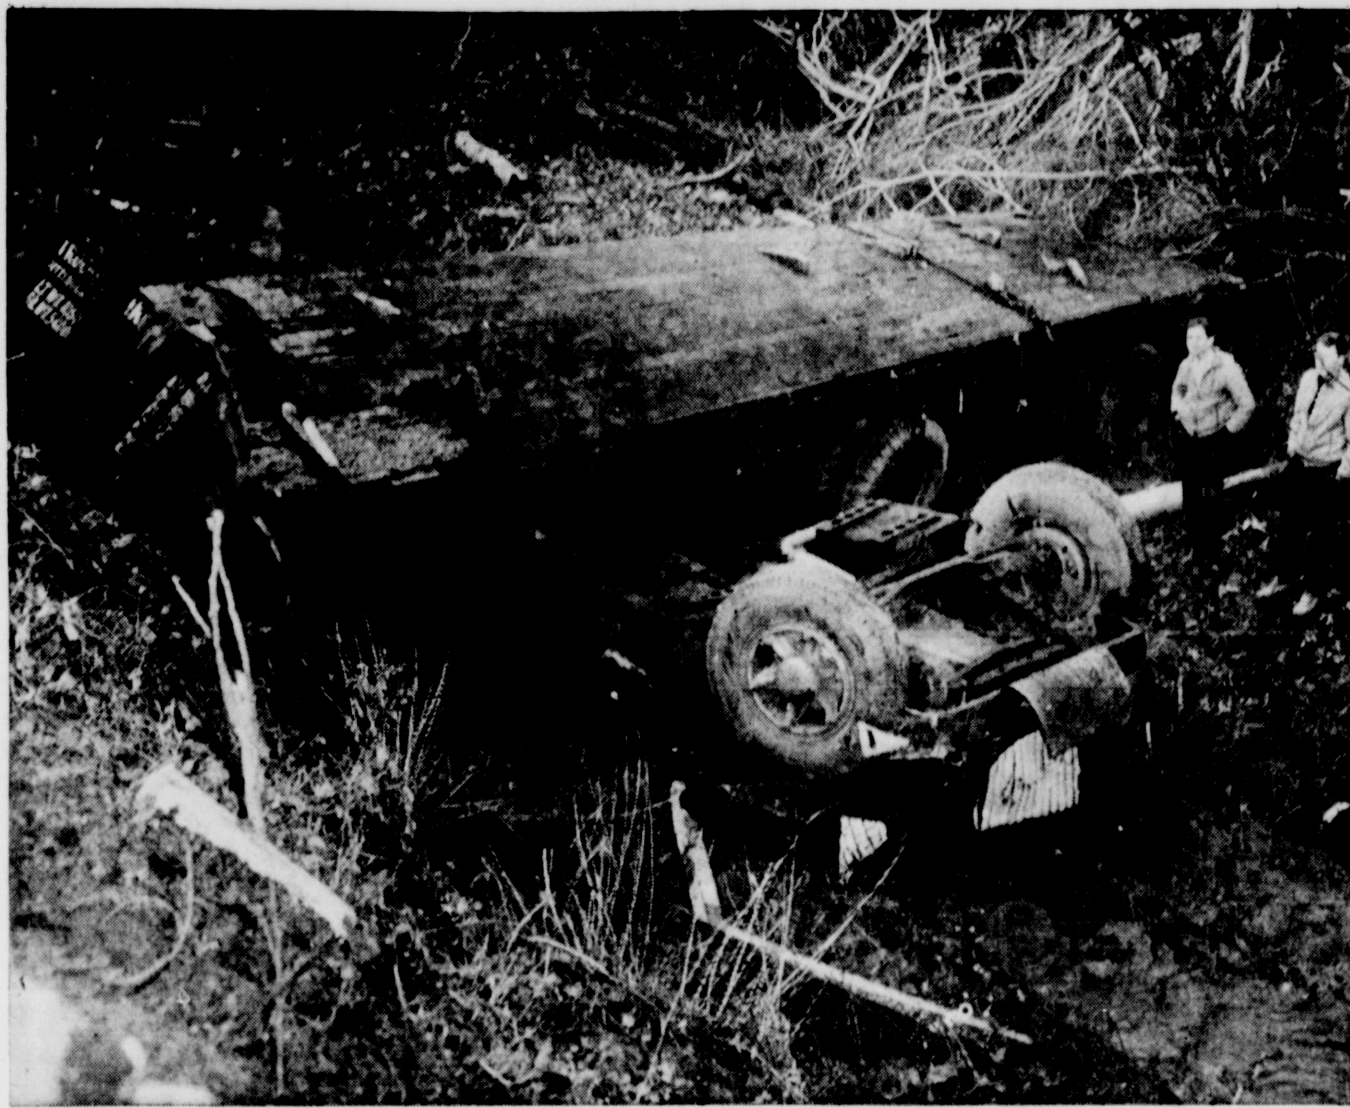

Rather than free the complaining witness and give him the choice of appearing at tonight's hearing for the tavern owner, Squire Herron ordered him confined in the County Jail.

In the last few years, Squire Herron declared, at least three other similar cases have developed when the complaining witness was not held and failed to appear at the hearing. Without testimony of the complainant, gambling charges were dropped and various equipment

TOPSY TURVY. The cab of this steel-laden tractor-trailer rig ended wheels up in a creek bed after plunging over an embankment on the Route 30 Chester Hill Sunday afternoon. Steel coils aboard the trailer were scattered along the highway. Gilbert N. Darnley, 26, of Midway, Pa., lost control at Taylor's Bend while coming downgrade. He was pinned in the wreckage a short time.

Trucker Hurt In Rig's Dive Over Hillside

Driver, 26, Pinned Briefly Following Route 30 Mishap

A Washington County trucker who was trapped in the wreckage of his tractor-trailer rig after it crashed over a steep embankment on Taylor's Bend on the Route 30 Chester Hill Sunday afternoon was in "satisfactory" condition today in City Hospital.

Gilbert Nelson Darnley, 26, of Midway, Pa., was extricated from the demolished cab by Hancock County sheriff's deputies after the rig shot over the hillside and overturned 150 feet west of the junction of Route 30 and Johnstonville Rd.

The rig damaged a utility pole in its flight off the highway, interrupting electrical service for Route 30 area customers of the Monongahela Power Co.

Darnley suffered severe lacerations of the forehead and middle finger of the right hand, contusions of the chest, possible fractured ribs, possible back injury and multiple contusions and possible fracture of the left elbow. He underwent surgery at City Hospital.

Steel coils carried by the rig were scattered on the highway in the vicinity of the crash a short distance up the grade. Sheriff's deputies said they were told by a Wellsville couple who witnessed the crash that the rig "was traveling too fast for conditions."

Darnley was headed downgrade when he lost control after almost completely rounding the curve, scene of many truck wrecks in the past.

Deputies said the 1954 model tractor, owned by the Aero

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — Burglars broke into the vault at City Hall early Sunday—a half-block from the police station—and fled with about $14,000 in silver.

Police said the burglars also broke into a soft drink machine and drank while they worked to open the vault in the basement.

Issue Broadens For Chester Vote

Chester's proposed 50-cent a month assessment for the City Park, a special issue to be voted upon by city residents Tuesday, will apply to a larger number of taxpayers than previously planned.

The assessment, if approved, would apply not only to the head of each household, but would also be paid by every unwarmed person over 21, Solicitor W. W. Ingram said today.

SOME COUNCILMEN, along with the leaders of the City Park Central Committee which promoted the assessment, had apparently believed the assessment would apply only to households.

The Central Committee, in announcements about the issue and in its circular distributed late last week, declared: "It will cost each family 50 cents per month (Not 50 cents per person.)"

However, Ingram said a tax solely upon a household head would be discriminatory and illegal.

Glenn Wins Endorsement From County Democrats

Columbiana County Democrats, at their first party convention in history Saturday night at Lisbon, voted, 80-3, to endorse Astronaut John Glenn Jr. for the party's nomination for U. S. senator over the incumbent, Stephen M. Young.

In a meeting that continued for about seven hours in Lincoln Junior High School, the party committeemen also endorsed President Lyndon B. Johnson for a full term and give support to Rep. Wayne L. Hays' bid for a new term as 18th Ohio District congressman.

A slate of county candidates was endorsed and a platform was adopted.

The county organization's endorsement of Glenn was not unexpected, as the group that urged him to become a candidate included two of the most powerful men in Eastern Ohio Democratic circles—Rep. Hays and Don R. Gosney of Columbiana, county chairman and 18th Congressional District member of the State Central Committee.

At the state convention in Columbus a few weeks ago, the delegates decided not to give endorsement to either Col. Glenn or Sen. Young.

About 85 attended the Lisbon convention, described as the first meeting of its kind ever held by either of the major parties in the county. The meet-

Auto Leaves Ditch, Crosses Street And Rams Into Home

A woman driver and a child were injured Saturday night when their car crashed into a home on North Side, police reported.

The 1961 two-door compact operated by Mrs. Mary Lou Gadd, 37, of 940 Myler Rd. struck a home at 901 Princeton Ave. owned by Mrs. Elsie Pethtel, damaging siding and shingles on the west side of the house and cracking the plaster inside, officers said.

Mrs. Gadd was treated at City Hospital for contusions of both knees. Her daughter, Brenda Gadd, 10, also was treated for contusions of both knees and a stoved finger, officers said.

The crash was timed at 6:56 p. m. Saturday. Mrs. Gadd told Patrolman L. E. Richard she turned off St. Clair Ave. and proceeded south on Jennings Ave. Her auto skidded on wet INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP) — Plucky Jean Saubert of Lakeview, Ore., added a silver medal to her earlier bronze by tying Christine Goitschel for second — a fraction of a second behind Christine's sister, Marielle, the gold medalist.

Beechcraft Turns Over And Falls Into Runway, Exploding

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A South Central Airline twin-engine passenger plane burst into flames immediately after takeoff today and crashed, killing at least 10 persons.

The Beechcraft plane was Flight 510 which originated in Ocala and was en route to Jacksonville.

D. M. Carroll, a city employee, said:

"It looked like the plane was about 200 feet high. The left-hand motor cut off and the engine made a whining sound. The plane turned on its left side, just like a plane circles an airport when it's way up in the air. Then it hit the runway and exploded and burst into flames."

The Federal Aviation Administration in Miami said there were 10 persons aboard the plane.

South Central serves small cities in Florida, Georgia and the Carolinas. It has a fleet of eight of the twin-engine Beechcrafts.

Woodchuck's Outlook Sees More Winter

The weather-forecasting groundhog of Gobbler's Knob went back to his slumbers Sunday after seeing his shadow in a pale, cold sun, content to let humans shiver through another six weeks of winter.

His cousins in Punxsutawney and Quarryville, obscure hamlets in Pennsylvania, also saw their shadows yesterday morning and hustled back into their underground homes to sleep through another month and a half of low temperatures, snow and ice.

And the U. S. weather observer sees it the same way. Temperatures in this region will hang below normal and precipitation also will be below normal, he said in a 30-day forecast issued over the weekend.

Legend says if the groundhog sees his shadow, the countryside is in for six more weeks of winter weather. The woodchuck forecast was unanimous throughout the area.

As if to comply, the weatherman sent the district some real winter weather Sunday — cold blasts of wind, low temperatures and a light skim of snow that iced highways briefly.

The overnight low in downtown East Liverpool was 17 degrees.

The weatherman said it will be clear and colder tonight, with a low of 8-14. Tuesday will be mostly sunny and not quite so cold.

Mrs. Oswald Appears As Witness In Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Warren commission, investigating the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, began today its secret interrogation of Marina Oswald, 22, widow of the accused slayer.

Brought to Washington from Dallas, Tex., Sunday, Mrs. Oswald was escorted by Secret Service agents this morning to the headquarters of the presidential commission to undergo at least one day of questioning on the movements and activities of Lee Harvey Oswald, the professed Marxist who was slain two days after Kennedy was shot Nov. 22 in Dallas.

Weekend Car Crashes Hurt 7 From Area

Seven suffered minor injuries in six area traffic accidents investigated over the weekend by the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

Mrs. Mary Hayes, 61, of 343 E. 9th St. suffered a cut on the head when the car in which she was a passenger was struck by another Saturday at 1:50 p. m. on Route 30 almost a mile north of East Liverpool.

Officers said a car driven by Samuel Nelson, 25, of Columbiana went left of center and struck another driven by Albert Wilson, 51, of 347 E. 9th St. Mrs. Hayes was a passenger in the Wilson car.

Nelson was cited for driving left of center.

Mrs. Wilda Simms, 38, of 1001 May St. escaped injury when her car rolled over an embankment along Route 267 four miles south of Route 30 Sunday at 12:05 a. m. She was headed south when she lost control on the icy pavement, officers said. The car skidded off the right side of the highway and rolled down the embankment.

David Thompson, 44, of Rogers was cited for driving left of center after his car struck a telephone pole along Route 7 a mile north of Route 30 Sunday at 8 a. m. Thompson, who was headed north, apparently fell asleep at the wheel, officers said. He suffered a laceration of the right eye.

Three from Beaver Falls were hurt in a one-car crash Sunday at 8:40 p. m. on Route 170 two and a half miles south of Negley.

Carl Rosenbaum, 50, of Beaver Falls was headed north when he lost control of his car on a curve, went off the right side of the highway and struck a tree. He was cited for reckless operation.

Rosenbaum suffered contusions of the right knee, chin and elbow. His wife, Mrs. Alice Rosenbaum, suffered contusions of the hip and chest and lacerations of the right leg. A passenger, Grace Webber, 11, of Beaver Falls had a laceration of the lower lip. All were treated at Providence Hospital at Beaver Falls.

Ronald Lewis, 16, of Salineville reported to the patrol his car was sideswiped by another that failed to stop Saturday night at 11 on Route 39 a mile north of Salineville. The hit-skip vehicle is believed to be blue and have damage to the left front headlight and fender, officers said.

Dorothy Nell, 44, of East Palestine lost control of her car on ice and struck a guardrail on Township Rd. 958 north of East Palestine Saturday night at 10. While her car was broadside in the northbound lane, it was struck by another driven by Gary Boyd, 17, of Negley.

Mrs. Nell suffered a possible whiplash of the neck and contusions of the eyebrow. Doretta Braheny, 18, of East Palestine, a passenger in the Boyd car, suffered contusions of the head, knees and left arm. They were treated at Salem City Hospital.

Chester Hearing Due For Driver In Mishap

A 58-year-old East Liverpool motorist posted a $15.50 bond for a hearing Thursday at 7 p. m. before Mayor Harry Abrams following a collision at 10:30 p. m. Saturday in Chester.

According to Police Chief Clarence Lennens, Wilbur D. Lowe, 221 W. 2nd St., was traveling on Carolina Ave. when he struck the rear of a sedan driven by Gordon D. Oglesby, 64, of 203 Oak St., Chester, who was stopped in a line of traffic at 4th St.

Lowe was cited for failure to have his vehicle under control. Total damage was estimated at $300.

Falcon proves it's America's toughest compact in the rugged Monte Carlo Rallye!

Four Falcons started from Oslo, four from Paris, on routes calculated to be equal in difficulty and length. Weather conditions varied from clear, bitter cold through freezing fog to blinding snow—and the time schedules made no provision for delays. Here a Falcon swirls through a sudden snow shower, testing traction in a practice run.

Falcon entered two classes in Europe's 2,700-mile winter ordeal—won them both and finished 2nd overall out of 299 cars. That's durability!

In the Rallye's five special Alpine sections, Falcon was first overall in four, tied for first in one. That's roadability!

In the Rallye's final test around the Monte Carlo racing course, Falcons were first and second. That's maneuverability!

MONTE CARLO—The 33rd Monte Carlo Rallye started with 299 cars. Some 2,700 miles and 3½ days later, only 163 were still in the rally when the field struggled into Monaco—but they included all eight of the specially equipped Falcons that originally started!

This eight-out-of-eight record was perhaps more remarkable than the fact that, despite a handicap formula that favored the smallest cars, a Falcon captured second place overall. One car can have luck . . . but eight have to have total performance. Because the Rallye samples every variety of weather and road conditions the continent can provide, and because it winds up on the most remote byways in the French Maritime Alps, it is a supreme test of all the car's abilities. Falcon steering had to be flawless on glare ice above a 1,000-foot drop. Those fabulous V-8's had to run like dynamos.

The final results in the Monte Carlo Rallye gave Falcon 2nd place overall, 1st in Class 8 of the Touring category, 1st and 2nd in Class 5 of the much tougher Grand Touring category, 1st and 2nd in the final three-lap test on the Monte Carlo circuit. The best finish by a Valiant was 88th overall. Falcon gained invaluable experience in how to build a car better, make it tougher, sharpen up its total performance. That's the real reason Ford is interested in open competition—and why Ford-built cars have got so much more to show drivers. Drive one and see; it won't have six lights, or a horn you can hear for four miles in stormy weather, or the other special rally equipment—but it'll sure surprise you!

TRY TOTAL PERFORMANCE FOR A CHANGE!

12% Of County Residents Receiving Social Security

About 12 per cent of Columbiana County's more than 108,000 residents now are drawing Social Security benefits, Walter Kimbro, manager of the East Liverpool district office, told the Lions Club Friday afternoon at the Travelers Hotel.

In the almost two years the Dresden Ave. office has been opened, 4,163 have applied for benefits, including 856 for disability benefits. There has been a net increase of about 1,000 receiving benefits in each of the two years, Kimbro said.

In addition to serving Columbiana County, the office now serves the northern half of Hancock County, saving the residents of the Chester - Newell area the long drive to Wheeling, he pointed out.

Kimbro said he is "more interested in people than in statistics."

Retirement benefits provide dignity and an income so older persons can enjoy their later years, he said, explaining there are some 7,000 or more retired countians receiving retirement benefits.

To the disabled worker, disability benefits, which generally are higher than retirement benefits, help offset the loss of income and often heavy medical expenses. A family depending on salary alone could be in serious financial trouble if the wage earner is disabled, he said.

"Very few are aware or care about survivors' benefits while they are working, but they can be one of the major factors in helping to keep a family together and to provide the necessities," he said.

Almost 1,000 widows and children in Columbiana County are receiving survivors' benefits.

Kimbro cited the role Social Security played in helping families avoid a complete disaster after the submarine Thresher was lost. The manager said 86 widows and children now are drawing benefits, which will average about $35,000 per family until the benefits expire.

In response to a question, Kimbro said there is a 20 per cent reduction if a man elects to retire at 62 rather than 65. However, based on life expectancy, there is no loss until the worker reaches 70, he continued.

If a wife decides to take her benefits, there is a 25 per cent reduction in the amount she will receive, he explained.

Cards are available at the Dresden Ave. office through which residents can learn the total amount they have paid in since 1936 and a breakdown of the last three years. A check should be made about every two years, he said.

The major advantage is to prevent an error from being frozen into the worker's account, he said, since the Internal Revenue Service ordinarily will not make any changes after three years have lapsed.

Many others merely are curious to learn how much they have been credited with, often expressing doubts they have earned that much. However, he pointed out workers are credited with only $4,800 as far as deductions for Social Security are concerned.

The office also stresses the necessity for workers to carry their Social Security cards with them and to show them when furnishing information to a new employer.

Memorizing the number is discouraged, he said, explaining transposition of one digit could foul up the high speed computers used in processing accounts or might cause the wrong account to be credited.

Kimbro was introduced by Pat DiPasquale, program chairman.

The Board of Directors will meet tonight at the Potters Savings & Loan Co. annex with the first rehearsal for the annual minstrel to follow.

Tickets for the show March 21 at Westgate auditorium have been distributed to members. Donald Duke and Fred Kane, co-chairmen, said.

Dr. William Sulkes, co-chairman, reported the program has been completed for the annual Charter Night Feb. 15 at the Travelers Hotel.

Sky Diver Lives After Mile Plunge When Chute Fails

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Parachutist Fred Hastings, 29, of Louisville was in serious condition today after he plunged 5,500 feet to the ground at Seymour, Ind.

Hastings, making his 41st jump with the Kentucky Parachute Association, landed feet first in a soft, wet field Sunday. James Tittle of Louisville, another jumper who was watching from the ground, said Hastings was saved from death when his reserve parachute blossomed briefly.

Tittle said Hastings was to fall free for about 20 seconds before pulling his parachute cord at about 3,000 feet. Hastings was falling face down in a spread-eagle position when the cord was pulled. The parachute failed to open properly.

Tittle said Hastings was jerked up and pulled the cord on a safety parachute. The second parachute became entangled in the first one until near the end of the plunge.

Students Must Prove It

The Ohio law reads: "A graduate of the 12th grade shall be entitled to admission without examination to any college or university which is supported wholly or in part by the state, but for unconditional admission may be required to complete such units not included in his high school course as may be prescribed, not less than two years prior to his entrance, by the faculty of the institution..."

Ohio is one of only five states with "open door" laws like this, and according to a recent survey by The Cleveland Press is struggling to evade the consequences. What are the consequences?

An annual flood of freshman enrollees in state universities, including thousands with no aptitude for advanced education. And what does the state propose to do about this byproduct of a bad law?

THE CLEVELAND Press survey reveals that admissions officers of its universities are recommending that only the top half of high school students be admitted to freshman classes, plus others able to prove by special examinations they are potentially able to do college work.

This would be similar to the screening process for private schools, which admit only the top third, fourth and even tenth of high school graduates, or require all applicants to undergo testing.

But what about the Ohio law if this were to be done?

THERE WOULD be ways to get around the law. One already is in use — assignment to dormitory rooms.

Neglecting The Precautions

When his fellow curators, his family and friends have mourned the untimely death of Jerry de Bary, curator of Salt Lake City Zoo, they may wonder about something that causes wonderment among the rest of us.

How could it happen that an African puff adder, one of the deadliest of snakes, would have a chance to strike a zoo curator, or any employee of a zoo? What precaution was being neglected?

Some years ago, an employee in the snake house of the Bronx Zoo in New York City was mangled by a python, which struck when the employee opened a door to rearrange a water dish. He broke a rule that another attendant always must be present. But only rarely do professionals make careless mistakes with deadly animals and reptiles.

Letter From Max

Dear Truman Twill:

The other day you were talking about college students rating the teaching ability of their instructors and seemed to be in favor of it.

Have you gone out of your mind? For heavens sakes try to slam the lid back on this Pandora's box while there is still time.

Obviously, you have not given this subject much consideration and were just talking off the top of your head.

A college or a university already is enough of a political enclave without compounding the evil by mixing student and faculty politics. Let them each stay in their own bailiwicks.

Teachers can vote for the teachers if they want to, and students usually have their own council and officers, which is plenty far enough to go.

YOU KNOW as well as anybody, if you stop to think for a minute, that asking some students to rate their instructors is like asking rabbits to vote on the hounds, or as another extreme example, asking convicts to elect a warden.

As even you have indicated frequently, the solemn business of picking a president of the United States has degenerated into a popularity contest with the most photogenic man having the advantage. Imagine what this would lead to if students voted on their instructors.

The success or failure of men teachers might hang on such a slender thread as the color and style of their neckties, and a poor female teacher could be snowed under an avalanche of unfavorable votes just because she showed up with her seams crooked.

Have a heart, Twill.

Take, for instance, the matter of discipline. You going to give the same weight to the vote of a wide-awake student that

Purely Personal

Keeping Bobby Baker locked up in a closet makes old-time family skeleton lockups seem inconsequential. They concerned a family, but Bobby Baker concerns the Senate — that august body whose pious members sit in judgment on everybody else.

One of the side effects of snow blowing a neophyte learns the hard way is the way blown snow sticks. We still haven't cleaned all of it out of a bird feeder in the line of fire. It also is semi-permanent on autos and houses.

I have nothing against Harold Stassen. But I am unable to take him seriously as a contender for the presidency. I feel about him the same as I felt about Jake Coxy of Massillon when Jake kept trying to warm up his frozen image.

I am unfavorably impressed with curt refusals from friends invited to help me

If a student cannot get a room, he cannot attend.

Another is referral of applicants to branch schools, thus staying inside the law in general while evading the law in particular instances.

Might still another be revision of the Ohio law itself, to permit college and university administrators to do what they know is essential — limit higher education to those who have demonstrated some capacity for absorbing it?

Back The Park

Fifty cents a month is a very small price to pay for a valuable asset such as a city park.

That is all the residents of Chester are being asked to contribute to assure continued proper operation of a park which has provided so much in the form of wholesome recreation.

They will decide the issue when they go to the polls Tuesday in a special election by voting "yes" or "no" on the 50-cent assessment. A 60 per cent vote is necessary for approval.

Although the assessment will apply to a larger number of residents than previously anticipated — due to an apparent legal requirement revealed only when the ballots were printed — the people of Chester should still consider the need for maintaining and developing the park.

The change in the number of people to whom the assessment will apply does not change the city's requirement for broader recreation facilities.

Every civic-minded resident should vote in favor of it.

This makes their accidents the more noteworthy when they happen. And it makes them more curious when they happen.

What is it about carelessness in humans that make them sidestep caution at their own risk? What causes people who work close to danger to neglect the precautions on which their life depends?

Why do autoists fail to use seat belts? Why do users of tobacco smoke to excess? Why do motorists disregard safety rules on the highway? Why are people careless about fire, drugs and firearms?

The Salt Lake City curator may be the only man ever to die in the United States from the bite of an Africa puff adder, which only shows how much tougher it was for him to be a victim of carelessness than it is for the rest of us.

By Martin Miller

you do to the vote of a snoozer? A conscientious prof will bounce a sleeping kid out of class any day, and thereby make an enemy when questionnaire day comes around to rate the faculty members.

FIRST THING you know, instructors would be having students bring their baby brothers and sisters, or, if married, their own babies, so the instructors could kiss them, as you always see politicians doing to babies in newspaper photos.

Then there would be a race among faculty members to see who could provide the most fringe benefits. Every D A B, coffee and hamburgers every Thursday... Shorter hours ("We'll knock off 15 minutes early today, class"). And lower fees ("This semester I'll make the lab fee for this course only $15 instead of the usual $20")...

Every class would open with the instructor going around and shaking hands with each student and inquiring about the health of the family.

Longer vacations... Social security payments starting upon graduation or dropout...

INSTRUCTORS would place advertisements in the school paper—"Vote for the man who—" And posters with their portraits and accomplishments would be placed on the bulletin board and in the lavatories.

And who would count the votes or check the questionnaires? There would hardly ever be unanimity in the opinion of students on their instructors. No, Twill, I have always tried to be a little further out than the next man in favoring new ideas but this is just too much.

It calls to mind that old saying, "One's man Mede is another man's Persian."

Faithfully yours,
MAX

Watch Out For That Guy!

Another Look At The Vice-Presidency

By Raymond Moley

No vice president since 1789 so constructively enlarged the status of that office and made it more useful than did Richard M. Nixon. Moreover, he served in that office when the President was gravely ill and vital questions arose about the succession "in case," as the Constitution says, "of the removal of the President from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office."

Nixon suggests the following qualifications for a vice president: "He should be a man qualified to be President. He should be a full-time vice president with no other official duties. He should be a member of the same political party as the president. He should have a political philosophy which is close to that of the president, particularly in the field of foreign affairs. He should be personally acceptable to the president, but since he may potentially hold the highest office in the land, his selection should reflect the elective, rather than the appointive, process."

He should be a man qualified to be President.

He should be a full-time vice president with no other official duties.

He should be a member of the same political party as the president.

He should have a political philosophy which is close to that of the president, particularly in the field of foreign affairs.

He should be personally acceptable to the president, but since he may potentially hold the highest office in the land, his selection should reflect the elective, rather than the appointive, process."

TO MEET these requirements,

Nixon suggests this constitutional amendment: "Within 30 days after a vacancy occurs in the office of vice president, either because of death, removal, or the elevation of the incumbent to the presidency, the president shall reconvene the Electoral College for the purpose of electing a vice president of the United States."

In support of this plan Nixon notes that the electors in the various states now perform a purely routine duty. They vote for the party candidates who carried their respective states and in doing so elected them.

Hence, the party organizations now nominate electors with no consideration of their qualifications. But with this change, Nixon says, the personnel of the Electoral College would be upgraded.

Since they were elected on the same ticket with the vice presidential candidate, they would be likely to follow the recommendation of the new president.

Down Through The Years

From The Review Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO—Charles Kidd, a representative of the City Board of Health, was received as a new member of the Public Health Nursing Committee.

With the Ohio River filled with ice and the water at the lowest level for nearly 20 years, river traffic was almost paralyzed, officials at Lock 8 reported.

TWENTY YEARS AGO—The Board of Education accepted the action of the Columbiana County Budget Commission, fixing a rate of 9.5 mills for the East Liverpool school district for taxes to be collected during 1944.

Hancock County estimated $49,143 in damage to forest and non-forest lands by fires during 1943.

TEN YEARS AGO — Ray G. Borger of W. 4th St. and Albert R. Wood of Glasgow, Madison Township, both filed for county commissioner on the Democratic ticket.

Ralph A. Finley and Robert E. Goodman were named co-chairmen of the annual Red Cross roll call campaign in East Liverpool.

Whaling

Whaling has come a long way since Capt. Ahab chased Moby Dick from sea to sea.

Nowadays, the ships are steel, the harpoons as lethal as modern artillery, the hunt both highly organized and internationally controlled, the National Geographic Society says.

A century ago, men dogged 100-ton whales in rowboats and threw harpoons by hand. Today's Moby Dicks are tracked by radar and helicopter. Swift "catcher" ships are armed with explosive weapons and factory ships can process 50 whales a day.

Last year, 17 whaling fleets roamed the icebergs — studded seas of Antarctica where 70 per cent of the world's whales are caught. Only five nations—Japan, Norway, Russia, Great Britain and the Netherlands — regularly send out large expeditions. The United States hasn't had a whaling fleet in the Antarctic since 1940.

But past slaughtering in the North Atlantic, Arctic and off South Africa has decimated those once — rich hunting grounds. The Antarctic is the last major whaling area, and even there an international treaty limits the catch.

In the 1962-63 season, a quota of 15,000 blue — whale units (two smaller fin whales count as one blue — whale unit) was apportioned among all the whaling nations. The population of blue whales — largest mammal on earth — is now so low that some experts believe only a total ban for eight years can save them from extinction.

Cashmere wool — the soft winter underfleece of a semi-wild Asian goat — is never shorn. The goat's wool is painstakingly plucked or combed by hand during its spring molt.

Inflation On Way?

By David Lawrence

Tax Cut May Intensify Spiral Trend

Is inflation on the way, and is the purchasing power of the dollar headed for a further downward movement?

An announcement just made by the U. S. Department of Labor throws some light on the subject. It states officially that higher prices for food and housing raised the nation's living costs in December to a new all-time record. This means it takes $10.76 to buy the same goods and services that $10 could buy in the period between 1957 and 1959. The increase in the consumer price level as compared with the previous December was the largest in five years.

The increases in prices did not affect all things but the total impact on the cost-of-living index was noticeable. Oddly enough, "Take-home pay" of factory workers, due to longer work weeks and higher rates of pay, resulted in a larger amount of individual compensation, so that many citizens were able to offset the rise in the cost of living.

The main significance of the Labor Department's report is that, despite all the claims that inflation is a thing of the past and that the coming tax cut will not be "inflationary," there are evidences that an inflationary trend has already set in and will, if anything, be intensified by the forthcoming tax cut.

SECRETARY DILLON of the Treasury Department, in a discussion last Sunday on a radio and television program called "Issues and Answers," declared that the real effect of the forthcoming tax cut will not be felt in 1964, but in 1965.

He said the former has been erroneously assumed because the bulk of "the rate reductions take place this year." He added:

"It takes quite a bit of time for these rate reductions to work through the economy and for people to buy more and therefore create more demand and therefore have orders to expand factories and expand production and so forth. The full stimulus from this tax cut will be taking effect next year, not this year. And next year is the time when expenditures are being held down."

Mr. Dillon called attention to the fact that the tax bill might take effect on March 1, and he mentioned that the increase in income a citizen may retain thereafter, due to a reduction in the withholding rates, will add to the total amount available to the economy.

He estimates the increase at $8 billion this year. So it is evident that the effect of the delay in the date for the enactment of a tax bill will be offset by the larger amount of money per week that the taxpayer, after March 1, will retain out of his income.

WHEN MR. DILLON was asked how all this could keep prices down or labor — union demands from being pressed, he declared that the President was trying to keep in touch with the wage-and-price problem. Incidentally, the auto Union leaders have just indicated that they will demand the biggest increases in wages since 1955.

Another question asked of Mr. Dillon was whether, if both management and labor did increase prices and wages, this wouldn't practically compel the Federal Reserve System to increase its interest rates. He replied:

"If there is an inflationary push, they (the Federal Reserve Board) would naturally take some action, and I think that would be expected, but we don't expect there will be need for that."

But the additional demand for goods as a result of the increase in consumer purchasing power growing out of tax reduction may be expected to bring more price increases and wage rises.

One of the most important aspects of the whole situation, however, has not been getting much emphasis lately. It's that public confidence in the future of the dollar is something that can change overnight, particularly by reason of the attitude of foreign countries which have large claims on gold in the United States.

ANY fundamental change in the international situation could produce a corresponding mood of hesitation inside America.

Foreign producers, moreover, are watching the American market carefully to see any way they can underbid American producers and further invade the market in this country.

The whole economic situation is so complex and consists of so many interdependent factors that it isn't possible as yet to foresee all the effects of the tax-reduction bill if it goes into effect on March 1.

Many of the economic experts, however, are beginning to wonder whether the readjustments that may have to be made in 1965 to meet new wage and price increases will make economic planning in advance for that year very difficult indeed, especially if during the year 1964 the cost of living continues to increase.

The damaging effects of inflation are usually due to the instability caused by the constantly diminishing purchasing power of the dollar.

IF ALL FACTORS could be co-ordinated — as the theoreticians constantly urge — so that wages would move up only in accordance with productivity of labor and prices would move up only enough to make a reasonable profit, the supporters of a controlled or managed economy would have more basis for their argument.

But in the natural operations of a free enterprise system, government action has an overall influence that is controlling.

When, for example, the federal budget itself is continually unbalanced year after year and money is pumped into the economy by borrowing constantly from the citizens, the public sooner or later discovers what red ink means in government finances, and confidence in the monetary unit inevitably weakens.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

We are writing this in the hope that the party or parties who gave the poison to our dog Tiny will read it. Also, to let them know the grief it brought into our home.

He was a companion for our daughter, as she has only one brother and he is serving with the Navy. Regardless of how long he was gone, Tiny never forgot him either. He was always ready and waiting to greet us all when we came home.

Don't misunderstand us, Tiny wasn't a human being, but to us he was one of the family, and had been for six years.

Granted our dog got out some times, but, so far as we know, he never harmed any one as he was a small terrier.

We had a license for Tiny, but can't understand why dogs have to be confined so much when the cats in the neighborhood can turn your garbage can inside out every night, to say nothing of the damage they can do to the shrubbery and flower beds and to chair cushions if they're left out at night.

We realize there is a lot of hatred in this world, but why take it out on a defenseless animal? We always have heard murder will out and we hope some day, in order to have any peace of mind, that the party has to come to us and confess.

Mr., Mrs. Clyde Dawson Jr., 601 9th St., Wellsville

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

There have been letters recently concerning Col. John Glenn running for the United States Senate.

If the public would care to get a 'bird's-eye' view into the character and the ability and faith of this man, let them read "The Saga Of John Glenn", a recent book on the market by Ira E. Fowler.

I have read it and feel that it not only makes a outstanding contribution to the field of literature but is also a most wonderful picture of John Glenn. I would suggest that the people of Ohio read this book before deciding against John Glenn for the Senate.

Large Supply Of Fish Seen To Help With Lenten Menus

Thanks partly to large supplies in cold storage, there will be an adequate backlog of fish for non-meat menus when the Lenten season begins Feb. 12, according to Ed Watkins, market information agent with the Agriculture Extension Service in Canfield.

Fresh fish always is in peak supply during the late spring and summer, but Lent produces the largest demand. Cold storage holdings are seven per cent higher than a year ago, according to Watkins. Halibut, shrimp, flounder and perch filets are in larger supply than a year ago, he said.

According to the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, shoppers in this area will find good supplies of fish sticks and portions, halibut, oysters, shrimp, filets of cod, haddock, and ocean perch. These fish will probably be found in frozen food counters, but some markets will have fresh fish displays.

Another reminder for those who buy either meat or fish in quantity and then store it in their home freezers—make certain your freezer is one that produces a storage temperature of zero or lower. Too high or constantly changing temperature causes loss of quality and food value — even though the food may be properly packaged and frozen.

Red meat supplies will remain in plentiful supply during the rest of the winter, but will be somewhat less plentiful by spring.

Feed cattle marketings will continue to be large during February and March. A substantial price increase isn't likely until late March or April and retail price levels should remain about the same as at present during February.

The volume of pork will decrease slightly in February and prices may show a modest increase. However, during March and April some seasonal increase in volume will occur as the fall pig comes to market.

Price-wise, no substantial change on pork is likely until about May. Pork specials may be less frequent however, reflecting a small decrease in volume.

Broiler supplies will be up about 10 percent through February with the volume likely to decrease in March.

Dairy supplies during 1964 will likely be about the same as last year. Commercial demand will probably increase less than population, and result in an excess of dairy production. Prices to consumers for dairy products will average about the same as a year earlier.

No important changes occurred in vegetable prices last week. Changes which have occurred were small and are for the most part normal day to day fluctuations.

Those vegetables showing some increase in price were celery, broccoli, Chinese cabbage, endive and leaf lettuce.

Slightly lower prices were exhibited for avocados, cabbage, peas, and rhubarb.

For that something special on the menu — strawberries from Florida. Prices are now low and quality varies. Many of the berries are being flown to market. It is interesting to note that from January through May 1963, the equivalent of 25 box-cars of strawberries came into the Cleveland market by air.

Senate Begins Battle On Tax Cut Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate gets down to business today on the tax cut bill with a fight over a college education amendment expected to provide the first major test.

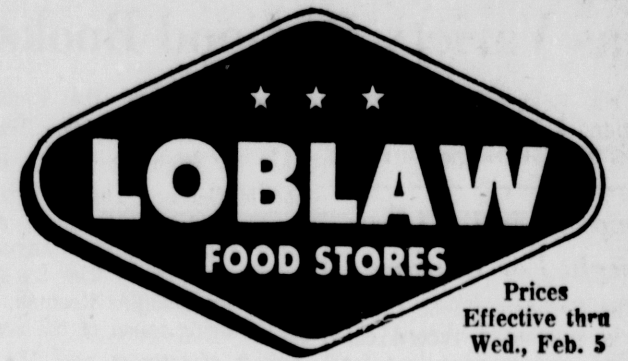

Debate on the top priority

$11.6 - billion administration measure began Thursday, but only a few speeches have been made on it so far.

However, Senate leaders put their colleagues on notice that there would be long sessions all this week in an attempt to pass the measure by Saturday and send it to conference with the House.

Hancock Commissioners Start Airing Tax Complaints

Hancock County commissioners convened Saturday as a Board of Equalization and Review for the purpose of reviewing property assessments and hearing complaints from taxpayers.

A new appraisal system, directing that property be appraised at 50 per cent of the "true and actual" value, was put into effect in the county last year.

However, to ease the effects of the sharp increases caused by the new plan, the state tax commissioner decreed that Hancock's assessments should be 40 per cent of the true and actual value for 1963, 45 per cent for 1964, and level off at 50 per cent in 1965.

Commissioners will again hear complaints of Grant District residents tonight and Tuesday at 6 p. m. Clay District residents may appear before the board on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, at 6 p. m. All districts may present claims for adjustments Feb. 17 at 9 a. m.

Robert Crosser of Lisbon R.D. 4 was elected vice president; Brent Dowden of East Rochester, secretary, and Wilford Copeland of Hanover R.D., sheriff.

Membership remains open for boys 10 to 21 interested in tractors, with the next meeting Friday the deadline.

Blood transfusion, now a standard procedure in the saving of lives, was practically unknown a generation or two ago. During the Spanish-American War, not a single blood transfusion was attempted, and during the Civil War only two transfusions were described in medical reports.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a sociology major in our state university. My fiancé is getting a degree in business administration. We both will be graduated in June and we plan to be married in July.

Larry's father is a highly successful businessman. Although he has built a financial empire he has not taken a vacation since 1952. Larry's father still puts in 12 hours a day at his office in spite of an ulcer operation and a coronary.

Last night Larry gave me some shocking news. He said that years of observing his father has persuaded him that wealth does not bring contentment or fulfillment. He wants no part of the sweat, blood and agony of business. Larry announced that he is going to be a mail carrier.

He outlined the benefits of a civil service job — no pressure, lots of fresh air and walking, a good pension, and plenty of time for reading and contemplation.

At first I thought he was out of his mind. Now I'm not sure. What do you think of a college graduate who would settle for a career as a postman? — PICK-A-DILLY.

Dear Dill: To each his zone.

Hero Worship

Dear Ann: Recently I read your advice to the wife who said she felt like an "unpaid housekeeper."

The woman described her spotless home, beautiful meals — and she even shined her husband's shoes. Yet he showed no appreciation whatever.

Your reply was interesting. You said, "A man doesn't love a woman because she's a fine cook, an expert housekeeper or a first-rate shoe shine girl — he can hire those services."

You added, "The woman who can make her husband feel that he is her hero has it made."

I would give anything in the world if I could do just that. How does a woman make her husband feel like "her hero"? Please answer in the paper. I could use the advice, and I know others who could use it, as well. — ALSO UNAPPRECIATED.

Dear Also: How did you treat the fellows you dated when you wanted to make a wonderful impression? Test your memory, Kiddo, and replay the tape.

You laughed at his jokes, built him up when he was down and made him feel special and important. You treated him with courtesy and respect, and you waited until you were alone if you had some criticism you just had to get out.

A successful marriage is not a gift, it is an achievement. The effort and energy that a woman puts into her marriage is like money in the bank. It begets interest in the form of strength, confidence and stability. When the going gets rough you have something to draw from.

A marriage license is not a guarantee that the marriage is going to work, any more than a fishing license assures you that you'll catch fish. It merely gives you the legal right to try.

Giver Less Gift

Dear Ann: A friend has sent me a check for $50 every Christmas for the last 10 years. This year I wrote to her in November and asked her not to send the check, as I now have a good job.

She sent the check anyway, but it was not cashable because she did not sign it. Now I need your advice on what to do. Shall I tear the check up and write to her and tell her what I have done — and why — and ask her not to send another one? Shall I ask the bank to send the check back to her? Or would it be best to do nothing and let her discover that I did not cash the check?

She's a very fine woman and I would not offend her for the world. — QUANDARY.

Dear Quandary: This is a toughie because a gift calls for a thank-you note and it would be senseless to say thank you for a check that is not cashable. So — my advice is to return the check, explain how you feel, and ask her not to send you another.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Farmers Air Price Issues

WASHINGTON (AP)—A delegation of Ohio Farmers Union members is in Washington today for a week-long discussion of farm problems.

Joseph W. Fichter, chairman of the Union, said wheat and dairy legislation will be discussed with members of Congress and Agriculture Department officials.

The OFU also will discuss what it calls the present low prices for livestock and poultry. Fichter said several weeks ago that the Union urged the agriculture department to examine the effect of imports on livestock prices.

"The current livestock price decline," he said, "cannot be explained entirely on the basis of increased imports. The price decline has been much too drastic in view of the supply situation. Such factors as changes in the marketing structure and the by-passing of competitive terminal markets are taking a severe toll."

Commenting on wheat legislation, Fichter said: "The predicted drop of $600 million in farm income in 1964, as a result of the defeat of the wheat referendum last May, will affect almost every farmer in the nation. New legislation is needed to prevent this predicted drop in income. Equally urgent is the enactment of a dairy bill."

Here with the delegation are the state winners in the Farmers Union essay contest and the state winner in the whole wheat bread baking contest conducted by the Union.

Essay contest winners are Shirley Prim of West Alexandria and Richard Fairchild of Ottawa. The bread champion is Mrs. Carl Malott of Mount Orab.

Racial Protest Slated Feb. 11 In Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) — The local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored people has joined the Congress of Racial Equality in calling for a one-day boycott of Cincinnati public schools.

The boycott, on Feb. 11, will be to protest alleged de facto segregation in pupil and teacher placement, unequal facilities, and the continuation of segregation by the choice of sites for new schools. School authorities deny the charges.

U.S.

Friday that he could not conceive of "a neutrality treaty... concerning the states of South-east Asia" without the participation of Red China. He went on to say what neutrality would mean in the area—such things as ending "foreign intervention"—but did not spell out the countries to which it would apply.

Johnson said that if Communist North Viet Nam and U.S.-supported South Viet Nam could be neutralized "I am sure that would be considered sympathetically."

But he added that he does not see any indication that the Communist forces are willing "to let their neighbors live in peace" and therefore he sees no alternative except to press the war as vigorously as possible.

With obvious satisfaction, Johnson announced he had received assurances from the new military leader of South Viet Nam, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, that the operations against the Communist Viet Cong forces will be stepped up immediately.

To some authorities in Washington it appeared that if De Gaulle presses his neutralization proposal to the extent that it threatens to upset the anti-Communist war effort in South Viet Nam, Washington - Paris tensions could become much greater.

Johnson said that as he understood De Gaulle's proposals "the neutralization talk has applied only to South Viet Nam and not to the whole area of the world."

"I think," he continued, "that the only thing we need to do to have complete peace in that area of the world now is to stop the invasion of South Viet Nam by some of its neighbors and supporters."

In other words, by contrast with De Gaulle's apparent design, Johnson sees no possibility of arriving at a peaceful solution for South Viet Nam except through carrying the present war to a successful conclusion.

Chester

The issue reads on the ballot:

"SHALL AN ordinance be adopted imposing a service of 50 cents per person per month on each person who is a head of a household and the same amount per month on each single person over the age of 21 years with such monies so derived to be used for park service?"

The proposed ordinance to take effect on the 4th day of February of 1964, and shall expire the third day of February of 1967."

A TOTAL of 1,500 ballots were prepared by the Chester Printing Co. for the election.

What effect the change in the issue will have on voters was not clear.

A 60 per cent approval is required for the measure, which would provide some $6,000 annually for the park for three years.

Mrs. Ossman said she still hoped people would support the issue because money is urgently needed to maintain the park and provide for improvements which are vital to the recreational facilities of the city.

HAROLD DICKEY, chairman of the City Park Commission, also urged support for the assessment, pointing to the progress made in the park in recent years and to the plans for future development.

It was pointed out that it would be difficult to collect the assessment for single residents over 21 because there are no records on which to base collections.

College students would not be required to pay the assessment. Lloyd Mansfield of the Central Committee said he had been advised.

The original plans for the assessment called for it to be collected from water customers, but this was termed unfair and also incomplete. However, the park groups decided to utilize the water department lists and office for collecting the assessment.

Voting will be held at a single location — the City Hall at Carolina Ave. and 4th St. — from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m.

was returned to the owner, he said.

"It's not going to happen this time," declared Squire Herron, who ordered that Chestnut be held as a material witness for tonight's hearing for the tavern owner, who was not identified officially.

Neither the squire nor the sheriff's office was able to provide the name of the defendant or the specific charge.

Squire Herron said the three cases in the past in which the complaining witness failed to appear involved the Cactus Bar, and the witnesses included two Ohio men and one from Pennsylvania who claimed they had lost money in gambling.

The Coast Guard's famed square-rigged training ship "Eagle" started out as the German "Horst Wessel." It was launched in 1936 at Hamburg and transferred to the United States as a part of reparations after World War II.

ing convened at 4 and did not adjourn until 11. There was a brief break for refreshments. Delegates were precinct committeemen or their alternates.

The convention adopted a 15-point platform presented by Ben Barrett of Salem. The principal planks call for:

A national park for Columbiana County.

Quick action on completing the construction of the Lake Erie-Ohio River Highway, which will link East Liverpool and Ashtabula.

Retention of Route 62 within Columbiana County. Route 62 is a major highway which runs along the northern boundary of the county and its relocation has been debated.

Provision of a "wholesome place" to treat and rehabilitate juvenile delinquents in the county.

Improved federal health and vocational care for veterans.

The organization gave its endorsement to this slate of county candidates:

Dr. William A. Kolozsi of Salem, coroner, Vincent C. Judge of Lisbon, treasurer, and Carl L. Stacey of Columbiana, clerk of courts, all incumbents; John Ursu of Salem, engineer; Atty. Jack Kuhlman of Columbiana, prosecuting attorney; E. W. Mallory, safety director at Salem, sheriff; John Wargo of Summitville, recorder; County Judge Herbert Arfman of Leetonia, Common Pleas Court judge; Ford Joseph Jr. of Salem, state representative, and Robert Owen of East Liverpool and Lew Sowards of Lisbon, commissioners.

Atty. Paul Tobin of East Liverpool, county vice chairman, presided. He outlined the rules and purposes of the meeting.

Invocation was by Lou Kramer of Columbiana. Probate and Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin outlined the history of the party in Columbiana County. He told the delegates they are "the leaders of our party" and urged them to "speak up as do the delegates in a national convention."

Gosney gave the key-note address, predicting the election of President Johnson, R. P. Hays and the entire Democratic ticket. Bell gave the address of welcome.

Atty. Guy Mauro of Salem presented a eulogy to the late President Kennedy. A minute of silence was observed in respect to the late President's memory. The convention adopted a motion to send a copy of the eulogy to Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy.

Robert McNally of Lisbon made the motion to endorse President Johnson. Mayor Dean Cranmer of Salem initiated the motion for endorsement of Col. Glenn and Maurice Rapoport of East Liverpool made the motion to back Rep. Hays.

Glenn's formal filing for the senate nomination — along with the petitions for Sen. Young and Rep. Robert Taft, Republican for the seat — was received this morning at Columbus by Secretary of State Ted W. Brown.

Glenn's petition was filed by former Ohio supreme court Judge James Bell, his campaign manager. He was accompanied by Gosney.

Glenn is in Houston, Tex.

pavement and went into a ditch, she said.

As she pulled out of the ditch, she stepped too hard on the gas pedal, causing the car to shoot across the street and strike the side of the home, she said.

An East End man was cited Sunday at 1:45 a. m. after his auto crashed into a parked car on McKinnon Ave. 105 feet east of St. Clair Ave., police said.

The 1959 station wagon of Ralph M. Schroeder, 40, of 1656 Cleveland Ave. crashed into a parked 1955 two-door sedan owned by Fireman Merle McShane of Maine Blvd., who was on duty at the North Side Fire Station, officers said.

Schroeder was cited on a charge of reckless driving.

Schroeder pleaded guilty when arraigned today in Municipal Court but Judge Samuel M. Chertoff continued sentencing until Thursday to allow him to submit proof that he has made arrangements to take care of the damages.

Schroeder told police he was driving north on St. Clair Ave. and turned right onto McKinnon Ave. He said he was unable to right his wheels in time and struck the rear of McShane's car.

There was no damage to Schroeder's auto, police said.

The crash damaged the left rear fender and backup light of McShane's car, officers said.

A collision Sunday on St. George St. damaged a 1963 two-door sedan driven by W. C. Heasley, 1101 Ohio Ave., and a 1962 sedan operated by Robert Owen, 775 Ohio Ave., police said.

Trucker

The crash was timed at 2:43 p. m. Sunday. The Chester volunteer fire department sent 15 men to the scene but there was no fire or spilled gasoline.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

You Can Be One Size Slimmer By Spring

Oh, to be willowy when it comes time to shed bulky winter clothes! Grab hold of this heartening promise—you can be one size slimmer and inches trimmer by the first day of spring.

Whip into slimmer measures with enthusiasm. This can help you to pull out of the winter doldrums. Action stirs up interest and revives energy. Life should have some spontaneity in it. Why not decide today to pull out of the slump, slim down and feel young again? You can. Set up goals and work happily toward them. When you muster the gumption to act, things start looking up!

SET A GOAL: 10 to 16 pounds lighter, and 2 inches slimmer through the figure controlling measurements. The number of pounds between sizes depends on stature. The range is 10 pounds in small sizes, 12 to 14 in medium sizes, and 16 pounds in the larger sizes.

Reducing Measures: By following the scientific pattern of eating you can lose two pounds a week without feeling hungry, losing your bounce, or chancing wrinkles.

If your tendency is to eat too much at dinner, cut down there. The simplest way is to get up from the table at the finish of the main course. Skip the dessert. Second helpings are definitely out. For 10 days practice getting up from the dinner table before you feel quite full. In 10 days your stomach will actually be smaller, which in turn shrinks the appetite...and you'll be reducing.

If you like too many fattening foods, your food habits need changing. Choice of food is mostly habit. Deal with one habit at a time. If you usually have potatoes, bread and a dessert...leave off one of them. If you spread gravy over everything, cut down to one half a pat of butter or margarine instead of two pats.

PLAN THREE moderate meals a day, plus an energy pick-up for zero hour, which is likely to be late afternoon. About 4 p.m. you need a pick-up: a glass of buttermilk, cocoa made with skim milk and non-nutritive sweetener, or a serving of cheese with apple slices.

This purposeful snack helps to cut ahead of hunger and you are less apt to overeat at the evening meal.

Get over the notion that eating less will subtract from the pleasure of eating. Plan good meals, but do not overeat. With a new perspective on dieting, you'll actually like smaller meals.

Tomorrow: Streamliners.

Wallace Slated For New Speech Bid At Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) — Another move to invite Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama to speak on the University of Cincinnati campus was to be made today.

Jeffrey Spragens, chairman of UC's Young Americans For Freedom, said he will apply to the newly formed Speakers Screening Committee for permission to have Wallace speak Feb. 11.

The Southern governor is speaking in Cincinnati that night, and a spokesman told the Cincinnati Enquirer that Wallace is keeping the afternoon hours open for a possible UC appearance. Wallace is a leading spokesman for segregation and states rights and has considered entering Ohio's Democratic presidential primary.

Gov. Wallace's office said over the weekend that Wallace had decided against running in the Buckeye primary. It also speakers rule—last week when he said the YAF had decided not to invite Wallace. He later said the group's faculty advisor had been pressured into withdrawing his approval.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: Here's a word of warning to parents who tie toys to a playpen or crib so their baby can't throw them on the floor:

We, too, thought tying toys with string to the crib and playpen (to avoid having to pick them up from the floor) was an excellent idea.

However, one night after the baby had been put to bed, my husband was resting on the bed in her room. He fell asleep but was awakened by the sound of the baby gasping for breath! A string, which was tied to a toy with one end and tied to the crib with the other end, had become wrapped around her throat. The harder she tried to free herself, the tighter the "noose" became. Never shall I forget this shuddering experience.

BERYL K. SCHAEFER.

The thought gives me "the shudders," too. Listen, all parents: When tying toys to a playpen or crib, make sure the string is short enough so that the baby cannot become entangled in it.

Thanks, Beryl. Love to you and your daughter.

DEAR HELOISE: After stuffing a turkey, chicken or any fowl, instead of using pins or lacing the cavity, place a large slice of bread over the cavity.

The bread will hold the stuffing (or dressing) inside the bird during the entire baking period. The bread hardens and clings to the stuffing.

Just remove the slice of bread before taking the dressing out. It works wonderfully well for me.

2 County Youths Get Cadet Bids

Two Columbiana County boys are among six from the 18th Congressional District nominated by Rep. Wayne L. Hays as candidates for appointment to the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs.

They are Charles J. Yoos of Lisbon and John R. Stratton of Salem.

Others are from Jefferson County, including Thomas J. Larkin and Virgil V. Monti Jr., both of Steubenville, Robert A. Walker of Adena, and Lorenz K. Lehner of Mount Pleasant.

One of the six will be selected by the Air Force Academy Academic Board based on the results of mental and physical examinations given the candidates.

Snow Double Usual Amount For January

Almost double the normal amount of snowfall was recorded during January, but the month also proved to be high in the percentage marks for the amount of sunshine recorded, according to Edwin Copeland of Millport, U. S. weather observer.

The average snowfall for January is 8.3 inches while 15 inches fell last month. By comparison, 17 inches fell during January 1963.

There were 11 cloudy, 14 clear and six partly cloudy days for 55 per cent sunshine, while the normal is 30 per cent.

The all-time average temperature is 27 degrees, but last month's average was 28 degrees, compared with 19.3 in 1963.

The high was 58 on Jan. 23 and the low was 16 below on Jan. 14.

Rainfall totaled 2.31 inches, compared with the average of 2.8 inches and the 1.13 recorded in 1963.

The snow and rain aided the water tables, but much more is needed, Copeland said. Some springs that had been dry started running again last month, he commented.

2 In Traffic Mishaps Given Speed Citations

Two area motorists were cited for speeding in excess of road conditions as the result of similar accidents Friday night, according to the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

Officers said a car driven by Karl Fatherly, 52, of Lisbon crashed into an embankment after he lost control on a curve on Route 45 three and a half miles south of Salem Friday at 7:40 p.m. Minor damage resulted.

About three hours later, a car driven by Robert McDaniel, 19, of New Brighton sheared off a utility pole after he lost control on a curve and went off the left side of Route 154 two and a half miles east of Route 7.

Officers said McDaniel was headed east. He was not injured but his 1951 sedan was demolished.

A custom of old that could very well be revived is the exchange of rings on St. Valentine's Day. In former times, this was a joyous festival when a kind of lottery took place. Married and single persons were both eligible to be chosen as a valentine, and a present was invariably given to the choosing party. Rings were frequently bestowed, as was mentioned in Pepys famous diary written in 1668.

He noted, "This evening my wife did with great pleasure show me her stock of jewels, increased by the ring she had lately made as my valentine's gift this year, — a turkey (turquoise) set with diamond." In writing about a Miss Stuart, Pepys related that the "Duke of York," "being once her valentine, did give her a jewel of about eight hundred pounds, and my Lord Mandeville, her valentine this year, a ring of about three hundred pounds."

Especially appropriate as a "love token" is the stone associated with the month of February — the deep violet Amethyst. This was the stone set in the ring worn by St. Valentine. It is also one of our loveliest, translucent and beautifully colored stones, and certainly one of the best buys. Due to a plentiful supply of the raw material, now coming principally from Brazil in the gem-laden Mines Gerais district, Amethyst set rings, brooches and necklaces can now be purchased for far less than the gem previously brought on the world market. Stop in soon and see our selection of special Valentine's gifts.

11 Others Given Fines

2 Drivers Lose Licenses After Trials In City Court

Two motorists were fined and had their licenses suspended today in Municipal Court and 11 other drivers were fined in a long series of hearings on traffic charges.

Three other drivers forfeited bonds and continuances were granted two others when they appeared before Judge Samuel M. Chertoff.

Drawing license suspensions of 10 days each were Jerry Ray Reed, 18, of 112 Boring Ln., and William Eugene Young, 1617 Commerce St., Wellsville.

Reed was fined $25 and costs and given the license suspension on a reckless driving charge filed by police Jan. 25 after his 1959 convertible was demolished in shearing off a utility pole, mowing down two mail boxes and striking a second utility pole. He pleaded guilty.

Young also was fined $25 and costs in addition to the license suspension on a charge of speeding 75 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone Jan. 26 on Route 7. Chester Pasquale, 31, of 1217 Anderson Ave., Wellsville, was fined a total of $35 and costs after pleading guilty to two charges filed as the aftermath of a hit-skip crash Jan. 27 on the East Liverpool-Wellsville Rd.

Pasquale was fined $10 and costs for driving left of center and $25 and costs for leaving the scene of the accident.

The Wellsville motorist told Judge Chertoff he was forced onto the wrong side of the concrete divider on the four-lane highway at Silver Switch and then became scared and continued driving in the wrong lane while hunting a spot to get back into the eastbound lane.

After cutting over, Pasquale said he looked back but couldn't see the other car and continued to work. He notified his wife to check with police about an accident, but she later called him back at the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. to tell him he must report since the driver was being hunted.

Fined for speeding were: Lewis G. VanDyne of LaCrosse, 10 and costs, 40 miles an hour in a 25-zone Friday afternoon on Lisbon St.

Adraeth Lee Monroe, Box 437, Newell, $15 and costs, 50 miles an hour in a 35 zone at 1:57 a.m. today on W. 3rd St.

Mary E. McElroy of Wellsville R. D. 1, $10 and costs, 50 miles an hour in a 35-zone Friday night on W. 8th St.

Glenn Morris, 1162 Oliver St., $20 and costs, 75 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone on Route 7 on Jan. 27.

Paul T. Todd, 1105 Center St., Wellsville, $10 and costs, 70 miles an hour in a 60-mile zone on Route 7.

Fined $5 and costs each for making illegal right turns at Washington St. onto E. 5th St. were:

Mrs. Eleanor S. Shaw of Clearview Dr., cited Friday at 7:50 p.m.; Robert E. Stacey, 341 Briar Ln., Friday at 8:11 p.m.; Leward R. Potts Jr., 939 W. 8th St., Friday at 8:11 p.m.; and William V. Torrence, 151 Center St., Saturday at 5:20 p.m.

Edward H. Pysniak of Hammondsville was fined $5 and costs for crashing a traffic light at Lisbon and W. 8th Sts. early Friday.

Forfeiting bonds of $17.50 each were Gary Richard Rayle, 825 Jefferson St., Newell; Gerald Lee Savors, 305 Alton St., and Frank E. Cordray, Box 374, Newell.

Rayle was cited Thursday afternoon on Route 267 for passing a halted school bus.

Savors was charged with speeding 50 miles an hour in a 35-zone on W. 3rd St. early this morning and Cordray was cited for driving the wrong way on Washington St. between Broadway and E. 5th St.

A hearing for David Williams, 709 John St., on charges of crashing a traffic signal at Dresden Ave. and Smith St. and for driving without an operator's license was continued until Thursday. Williams was cited Sunday at 6:45 p.m.

He told Judge Chertoff he "forgot" his license had expired but in checking the permit the judge found the license had expired four years ago. He also pleaded guilty to crashing the light.

Judge Chertoff delayed the hearing to allow Williams time to produce proof that he has applied for a new license.

A hearing is scheduled Wednesday for Emma Grace Cartwright, 218 W. 7th St., charged with speeding 50 miles an hour in a 30-mile zone Jan. 27 on the East Liverpool-Wellsville Rd. She pleaded "no contest".

City Youngster Hurt In Mishap At Chester

Deborah Hood, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hood, 1306 Brightview Dr., was injured Sunday about 6 p.m. when struck by a car on Carolina Ave. near 3rd St., Chester.

She was treated at City Hospital for contusions of the right leg and a sprained arm.

The family said the child was hit by a car driven by Blaine Smith of Washington School Rd. Smith said the girl ran into his car. Chester police were not notified of the accident.

as large as he would like it to be.

Some, in fact, have to get along with a shop that really isn't a shop at all, but a part of another room or section of the house or garage.

For those who have a minimum amount of workshop space at their disposal, here are 10 ways to make the most of that space:

- (1) Provide storage space for everything. Nothing takes up more space than unorganized clutter. When you get a new tool or piece of material, assign a storage space to it.
- (2) Use adjustable shelves for paint and other shelf-stored items. They can be made with metal support racks designed for this purpose or by drilling a row of holes vertically inside shelf sides and using wooden or metal dowels in the holes to support the shelves. Store items of the same height on each shelf.

- (3) Store all small hardware—nuts, bolts, cotter pins, etc., in small glass jars. Nail the tops of the jars to the underside of a shelf so that the items are both visible and handy.
- (4) Use overlapping tool panels. If there is not enough space for all your hand tools and power tool accessories above your workbench, hinge two or three swinging panels above the bench and hang tools on both sides of them.
- (5) Use overhead space for the storage of lumber. This can be done with one of the specially made and inexpensive types of metal suspension racks—or you can make your own of wood.
- (6) Mount power tools on casters so that they can be placed against the wall and out of the way except when in use. Use the kind of casters that can be locked in place or retracted while the tool is in operation.
- (7) In cramped quarters, position tools so that long pieces of wood and other materials can be extended through an open door or windows while being cut.
- (8) Use wall space instead of drawers. Perforated hardboard sometimes provides a perfect answer to the problem of space.
- (9) Build a sliding board into your workbench, like the cutting board on many modern sink tables. The board is pushed back out of the way when not in use.
- (10) In certain cases—where you have a small space set aside in the basement, for instance—you can sometimes make good use of a few window shades attached to the ceiling. When the shades are pulled down, they provide a separate area for such things as painting and spraying.

Zoning Meets Heating Need

Have you ever heard of a house with just one light switch? Of course you haven't, for the simple reason that lighting requirements are not always the same in all parts of the home.

Many people are making a 'one switch' mistake with their household heating systems, though, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau of Chicago. However, with a little planning all parts of the house can be heated as much or little as the family desires.

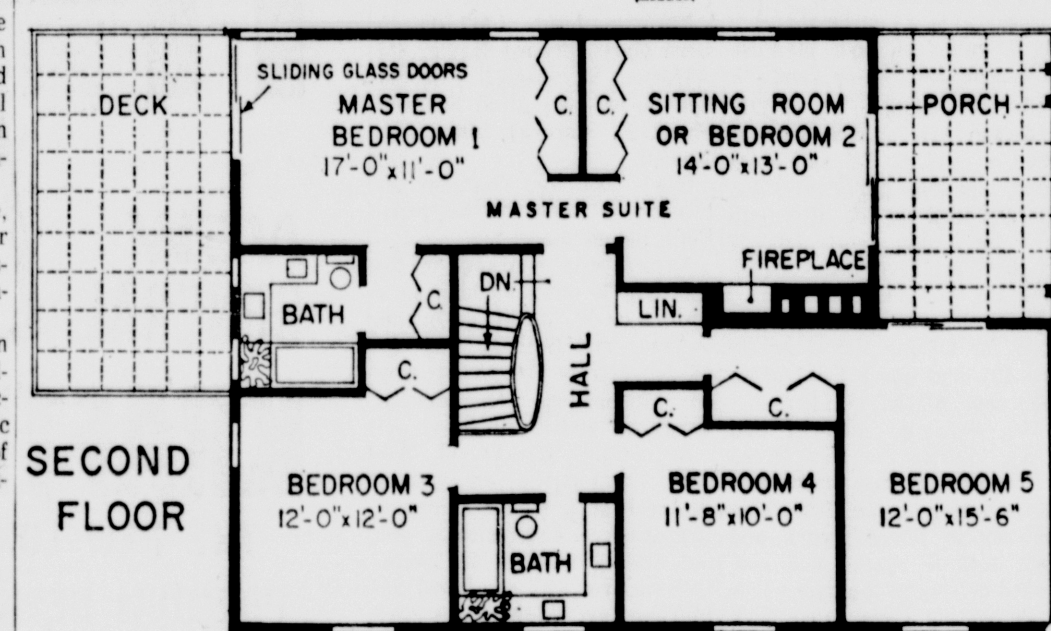

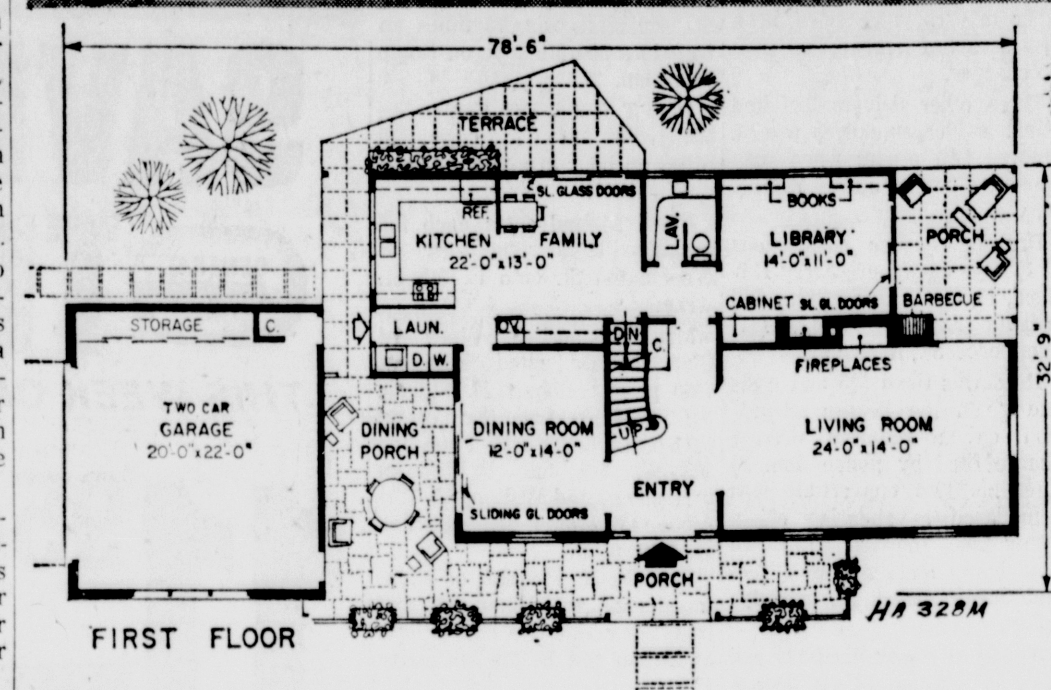

Zoning is the term used to describe the individual temperature control of different areas of the home. In the case of a quality hydronic heating system, the hot water piping for each living area has its own circulator pump or zone valve and thermostat.

This means that an exact desired comfort can be maintained for each area and that it is never necessary to over-heat or under-heat any room in order to be comfortable in any other room.

For instance, most people like a cooler temperature in bedrooms than in the living and dining rooms. And additional heat may not be necessary in the kitchen, but a cozy bathroom is always welcome.

If you're building a home, talk to your heating contractor about zoning the heating system to provide the proper comfort your family will want.

Zoning is also possible in many homes already built, although it is much easier accomplished with a hydronic system since piping, instead of large ducts, is involved, the bureau says.

FOR MODEST SIZE of first floor (1,383 square feet), Plan HA328M makes a grand appearance from the exterior. This has been done by the design tie-in of garage and dining porch and their roof. Use of louvered panels along front porch has the interesting combination of being symbolic of both Early American window shutters and of the architecture of the tropics. The living room is huge and dual fireplaces face it and the library. The kitchen-family room is an unobstructed 22 feet. Bedrooms may be four of five, depending on use of entire rear for master suite. The second floor has 1,301 square feet. Architect Rudolph A. Matern, 90-04 161 St., Jamaica 32, N. Y., has provided much outside living also, with porches and terraces on both first and second floors.

If You're Laying Large Flagstones Tips Are Offered

Question: Please give me some advice on putting down a flagstone terrace.

I don't want to use the small or ordinary - size flagstones, but the very large ones I saw on an estate I visited recently. Besides being huge, the flagstones came in many different colors. Can they be purchased this way or must they be colored or painted after being installed?

Answer: The large flagstones can be purchased in colors. They come in squares and rectangles. In using regular flagstones, you can improvise as you go along, because the stones are light and easy to handle. But if you are doing a terrace with the large flagstones, it is better to use scaled pieces of cardboard to make a layout of how the stones will fit in place.

If you don't do this, you'll find (1) that you'll do a lot of unnecessary lifting and (2) the pieces won't fit together as you thought they would. Make the pattern with cardboard, numbering each piece as you go along. When you have everything properly in place, number the stones accordingly and begin the actual work.

The stones, by the way, should be placed on a two-inch bed of sand.

Where there is poor drainage, the sand should first be spread on a layer of gravel or cinders. Be sure everything is packed down firmly before putting down the stones. After each stone is laid, stand on it and see whether there is any movement. If there is, the sand should be repacked to provide a level base.

Steel Hikes Forecast On Production

CLEVELAND (AP)—The nation's steelmakers have upped their forecasts and now predict first-quarter shipments will top 19 million product tons, Steel magazine reported today.

This means shipments will be at least 1 million tons higher than the similar period last year, when strike hedging spurred demand.

The steelmakers took another look at the situation as weekly ingot production continues to rise in response to demand, the publication said.

Steel predicted that first-quarter ingot production will be the highest for any year not affected by strike threats or post-strike inventory corrections since 1957.

The magazine estimated first-quarter output will be about 29 million ingot tons—nearly 13 per cent more steel than the industry produced in the fourth quarter last year.

"Users are consuming a lot of steel," the magazine said, "and they expect the uptrend in usage to continue. Their purchases reflect the market's strength and prove that its base is broadening."

For the sixth consecutive week ingot production is expected to rise and be higher than the 2,220,000 tons that Steel estimated were poured last week.

Steel's composite on No. 1 heavy melting grade slipped last week 34 cents a gross ton to $29.33, reflecting lower early bids on scrap to be generated in automotive plants.

Log Cabin Tips Offered Builders

Question: My brother and I are going to build a small, two-room vacation cabin. We have considerable knowledge of ordinary construction, but need some advice on this particular project, since we would like to undertake a cabin made of logs.

Answer: You've set yourselves quite a task, but it can be done, especially by two persons with some construction experience.

Don't try it, though, unless you have a chain saw for slicing and making cuts in the logs. You'll have to check with local authorities regarding foundation regulations. Most areas require that the foundation be made of concrete of a specified depth. Logs are then sliced and placed on the foundation with the flat side down, bolted to the concrete.

After adding three or four tiers of logs, placed horizontally, the rest of the walls are made from logs set vertically.

The top logs must be beveled so that the roof rests securely on them. Window frames and other openings can be made from 2-by-6s. How much and what kind of insulation you use depends on how thorough a job you want to do. But you'd better be sure to use caulking compound to keep the cabin weather-tight.

You can get a good start on this by cutting and notching the logs properly so that they fit together tightly.

There are many variations of cabins you can build, some of which call for placing the logs horizontally from the base to the top. You should have no trouble with this because of your construction know-how.

Home Turns Down TV Debate For Campaign

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home has indicated he will shy away from a personal television showdown such as the Kennedy-Nixon debate in the 1960 presidential contest.

With a national election due in Britain before the end of the year, Douglas-Home was asked by a reporter Sunday night what he thinks about a TV joust with Laborite leader Harold Wilson.

"I never like turning the British election scene into an American model," Douglas-Home replied.

Wilson, a sharp-tongued debater, has said he would welcome a TV duel.

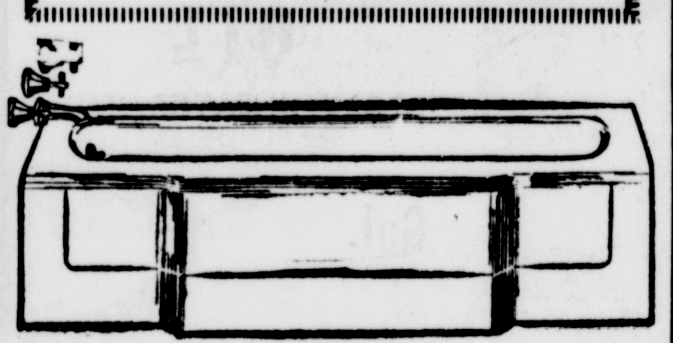

26 Sailors Rescued Off Liberia Freighter

TOKYO (AP)—All 26 crewmen of an abandoned Liberian freighter were reported rescued today from mountainous seas about 600 miles east of Japan.

The American liner President Wilson radioed that she had picked up 18 of the crew and another ship, not immediately identified, rescued the other eight.

The freighter was en route from Portland, Ore., to Japan with a cargo of scrap iron when she sprang two leaks in her hull.

Toledo Police Search For 3 Men In Holdup

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Police are searching for three men who broke into Lamson Brothers Co., a downtown department store, Sunday night, tied a watchman and escaped with $6,500.

However, about $1,500 of the loot was recovered when police discovered a bag, apparently dropped, in an alley.

Richard Nixon Makes 'Nonpolitical' Speech

MISENHEIMER, N.C. (AP)—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, on a "strictly nonpolitical" trip to North Carolina, speaks on foreign affairs today at Pfeiffer College.

Nixon, who flew to Greensboro Sunday from New York, took 25 minutes to move through a large crowd that met him at the airport.

He told newsmen he didn't expect to be a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, but reiterated that he would do "whatever is necessary to help select the strongest candidate and to elect him."

Room Plays Many Roles

PORTLAND, Ore. — Want to save space in your new home? Then don't make the rooms smaller. Squeezing out a few feet here and there usually means a corresponding reduction in livability.

The real trick to saving space is to use it — all of it. Make rooms serve double duty. Evaluate the need for certain rooms as against others of larger size which could work two ways.

The dining room, for instance, is an essential. When you eliminate a dining room in favor, say, of a gymnasium-sized family room, you also eliminate pleasurable, relaxed mealtimes, the chance to entertain graciously, and the opportunity to train children in dining etiquette.

But the dining room needn't be a starched collar room. The best plan is one that offers built-in warmth and graciousness with dress-up or dress-down flexibility. And, in the space-saving tradition, it should be designed for 24-hour useability.

Here, for instance, is an ideal spot to locate a home office, which can consist of a simple desk unit and some wall-hung book shelving. The desk needs to be only deep enough to provide an ample writing counter—about 20 inches. Drawers flanking the kneehole can be built to take file folders as well as stationery supplies.

Then, to make even the desk do double duty, use plastic laminate for the writing surface and it will work beautifully as a serving counter.

The dining area can also become a game room for the family if dining table and chairs are selected with that in mind. Chairs should be constructed to allow a person to sit comfortably but upright, and the table should be the type that folds down to game table size. Or, in some homes, two or more game-size tables are used in the dining room and are either pushed together or set separately for meals.

In order to let this room work comfortably in its different roles, it needs spontaneous friendliness which can be achieved with an open beamed ceiling and the richness of solid lumber paneling on one or more walls.

A vertical grain wood like west coast hemlock would be the best choice since it provides texture without pattern. Hemlock is favored for dining room use also because its pale champagne coloring is in perfect harmony with the delicacy of fine crystal, china and polished silver.

The many-faceted dining room can be a delight to design and a pleasure to use. And it, like other multiple-purpose rooms, can stretch space sensibly.

Mass Slayer Suspect Kills Self In Germany

DORTMUND, Germany (AP) — Ewald Peters, chief security officer for Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, committed suicide in jail, the state prosecutor's office announced today.

Peters was arrested Saturday on suspicion of having killed Jews in Russia during World War II.

Peters was one of two leading members of Erhard's government accused of war crimes. Refugee Minister Hans Krueger resigned Saturday, saying he had committed no crimes, but did not want to damage the government.

The government is investigating Communist charges that Krueger committed war crimes during the Nazi occupation of Poland.

Driver's Hearing Set

SALINEVILLE — Robert Shinn, 42, of Water St. is scheduled to receive a hearing tonight at 7:30 before Mayor Stanley Pritch on a charge of driving without an operator's permit. He was arrested Saturday night by Police Chief Roy Lewis.

WALLS AND CEILING paneled in elegant, vertical grain west coast hemlock set a backdrop for modern living in this multi-purpose room. Game table is just right for cards or four dinner place settings. Built-in desk against one wall offers space for home office, but plastic laminate desk top will also work as serving counter at mealtime.

Now's Good Time To Plan Closet For Summer Gear

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Why not build a party cabinet?

It's just the thing for anyone who entertains a great deal, particularly outdoors. And now before we begin scuffling around to see what needs attention outdoors, it's a good idea to give some thought to an indoor cabinet that can lend a big hand to storing some outdoor paraphernalia.

The cellar and garage may be useful for storing large items — barbecue grille, tables and chairs in winter and inclement weather of summer. But so many other items are used outdoors and for parties that need to be stored and used from time to time that it would pay to have an easy, accessible unit.

ONE MAY move many items indoors after dining outdoors. But where are they put? Some people (men) toss these objects on a porch or on the kitchen floor or shove them into a broom closet. One woman found a stall shower loaded to the hilt with barbecue stuff.

A good do-it-yourself project such as a tall closet with a separate compartment at the top can keep a home from bursting at the seams with objects used for seasonal entertaining. The separate shelf at top could have its own doors so that damp or dirty chair cushions may be put into it in an emergency. It can be lined with oilcloth or plastic and washed from time to time.

Shelves below may be used for all sorts of things. One shelf should be at least 12 inches high for candlesticks, hurricane lamps, flower vases, large bags of charcoal.

A hibachi could be stored here. Ditto strings of outdoor lights. Another shelf could be used for outdoor tableware, cloth napkins, utensils. Stashed in their own spot, they will be clean when needed. It could hold a complete paper service from dinner plates to cups, and these may be replenished after use.

Store large glasses and mugs, popular for outdoor use but seldom in winter service. It's a good place, too, for special centerpiece containers.

ALL SORTS of special occasion gismos for use indoors may be kept in the closet. It's an ideal place to keep party tableware, candleholders and games.

The closet should be as wide as the door used on it to get complete use of it and there shouldn't be any dead space.

It should be convenient to the outdoors where dining takes place. It shouldn't be too deep, making things inaccessible. And the doors shouldn't be a nuisance. If it doesn't ruin the look of its surroundings, sliding doors are a good bet. These are especially good in a small area.

If there is room in the kitchen or other area, a closet that may take up the least room and prove most effective is a corner closet.

This could have shelves to the ceiling, instead of being built like a conventional corner cupboard. The doors shouldn't interfere with other furniture in the area, though, or it will defeat its purpose.

It won't project and become a nuisance, and that's a good point to consider in planning a closet. If you are going to squeeze it in to a tight area, it may not prove its usefulness, after all.

DiSalle Ends Rumors He May Seek Election

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Former Gov. Michael V. DiSalle squelched today any remaining speculation that he might run for public office this year.

"After serious and careful deliberation of the suggestion that I seek election to the office of congressman at large I have decided not to become a candidate for any office in this year's election," DiSalle announced.

Defeated for re-election as governor in 1962, DiSalle currently is engaged in private law practice.

One of the first statutes of limitations can be found in the Old Testament of the Bible, which relates to an old Hebrew law which forced a creditor to release a debtor from his obligation after seven years.

Chemists See Plastic Shoes, Suits Of Paper

MEMPHIS (AP) — The American Institute of Chemical Engineers begins its convention today with talks on how to make shoes out of plastic and turn petroleum into food.

Donald A. Dahlstrom, president of the institute, said Sunday that "in about five years people will be wearing clothes made out of paper and discarding them after one day's use."

The Panama Canal opened its locks to global shipping on Aug. 15, 1914. The 50-mile-long ditch from deep water to deep water sliced 8,000 miles off the New York-San Francisco sea trip.

Sale Should Bring More If You Follow The Rules

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

Selling a house to the best advantage is quite an art. Take two houses, built at the same time, both kept in moderately good repair, both in about the same type of neighborhood, and one will bring a few thousand dollars more than the other.

The answer usually is that the people who get the higher price have conformed to a few well-established rules for getting the most out of what they have to sell.

Our rule is to sell a house while it is still furnished and lived in. When a house is stripped of furniture, rugs, carpets and hangings, every small defect sands out. Faded wallpaper shows where pictures once hung. Floors always show a lighter or darker border around where rugs once lay. Scuffs and wear show in hallways and the uncurtained windows look dismal.

The exterior of a house gives the first impression to a prospective purchaser. The lawn must be cut, the drive and foot paths neatly edged and weeded, and shrubs trimmed to give the best impression.

For the house itself, it is essential that there be no broken panes of glass, even though the replacement is but a matter of cents.

Shutters must be straight, doors clean and brass polished. Door-mats should not be ragged. Believe it or not, while your prospect is waiting for you to answer the bell, your front door is getting a good looking over, and all real estate experts agree that the impression a buyer gets as they approach a house and mount the steps is of paramount importance.

There is no excuse for peeling paint, fallen out putty or rusty nailheads. A few dollars worth of paint and a few hours' time may make the difference in a sale. In short, if you want to get what your house is worth, make it look worth it.

Potters Even Score With Wellsville In 85-54 Rout

By CHUCK CRONIN
Review Sports Writer

Surprising Wellsville High with some deadly shooting and a hustling floor game, East Liverpool's Potters exacted revenge for a previous loss in spectacular style Saturday night, checking in with an 85-54 victory over their backyard rivals.

It was rather astonishing in that it came so easily. With a large crowd looking on at Memorial Auditorium, the slumping Tigers rolled over and played dead, and the Potters seized on the opportunity to drive towards one of their most decisive conquests in the tenure of Coach Jim Harris.

WELLSVILLE, bucking a long-standing tradition of losing to East Liverpool at the MA, was never in contention after the opening minutes, as the Potters started hot and continued to shoot and perform effectively throughout to gain revenge for a 56-52 defeat at Tigertown earlier in the season.

Frank McComas, 5-11 senior, exercised his soft jump shots from the keyhole and corners to drill in 25 points, and guard Bob Forzano, equaling his previous season high, collected 21 to lead East Liverpool to its sixth victory in 14 games.

"It sure feels good to have the team hitting on all cylinders; it was one of our best shooting games as a team," Harris declared afterwards.

THE POTTERS hit 52 per cent in the first half to roll up a 25-point lead, and then coasted the rest of the way against the spiritless Tigers, who gave no indications of getting into a serious mood to whittle down the score.

McComas, Forzano Combine For 46

The Potter offense was really clicking in the first half, with McComas and Forzano hitting consistently.

Guard Bill Hall posted himself on the outside to feed McComas in the key, while Forzano worked the corners and sides. Each hit 16 in the first half, and pivot Randy Stover hit nine from in close.

In addition to some accurate shooting, Forzano went after each loose ball with dogged determination and retrieved a lot of them. It appeared to be his hustling offensive efforts that kept the Potters rolling towards their big first half lead.

THE POTTERS figured as the logical choice, by virtue of a long string of MA victories over Wellsville dating back to the era of Clarence (Bevo) Francis in 1951-52.

Not a heavy favorite, however, because the Tigers brought ace pivot Terry Flesch, 6-3 senior, who had been scoring at an average of 18 per game, and has been in the 30's three times this year.

But Flesch was not a factor as had been expected. Big Terry wasn't hitting and was tied up in the key numerous times by Stover and the other Potter defenders. His shots were usually hurried, and when they missed, the Potters usually got the rebound.

FLESCH, who got only one point against Steubenville Big Red in Friday's 92-39 loss, finished with six on two field goals and a pair of fouls. And when Flesch doesn't hit in double figures, the Tigers usually lose.

If anyone turned in a fair game for Wellsville, now 6-8 for the year, it was guard Dick Bratt, 6-2, who has shown much improvement of late. Bratt displayed more spirit than anyone in an Orange and Black uniform and contributed eight points.

Overall, the Potters shot 48 per cent — one of their best marks of the season — in hitting 36 of 75 shots. They made 18 of 34 in the first half for 52 per cent.

WELLSVILLE got 17 goals in 51 attempts for 33 per cent, which also represented the first half average.

Both Harris and Coach Jack McDevitt of Wellsville drew on their second liners to finish up just about half of the final quarter. Nine players scored for the Potters, and 10 for Wellsville.

In the prelim, the Potter Reserves moved in front in the second quarter and went on to whip Wellsville's Reserves, 50-40, with Danny Roach the sparkplug for the winners.

Roach dropped in 11 points, and Chuck Winters hit 10 for Coach Frank Chan's Little Potters, now 8-6 for the year. Promising Dick Murray led Wellsville with 15 points while southpaw Chick McMillan's Tigers are 7-7 overall.

Houston Wins, Steelers Lose

Appleton Stays In Texas, Signs $150,000 Package

HOUSTON (AP)—All-America Texas tackle Scott Appleton has signed a four-year pact with the Houston Oilers because, "I decided I'd be happier here in Texas."

Appleton signed a contract which promises him $104,000 in cash, plus several business deals, adding up to a potential $150,000 package.

In the process, the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League, who sought Appleton with checkbook open, gave up end Buddy Dial for nothing.

Dial, however, apparently had the Steelers backed into a corner.

The Houston Post said Monday it learned Dial, a Houston resident, threatened to play out his option in 1964 and become a free agent with either Dallas or Houston.

Coach Buddy Parker appreciated Dial's contribution to the Steelers and his desire to play in Texas. Parker also figured he better get something in return for Dial rather than wait a year and get nothing. So, he traded Dial, who had become the Steelers' most popular player, in return for the draft rights to Appleton.

An abundance of receivers at Pittsburgh also made Dial attractive trade bait.

The Steelers figured on Appleton as a replacement for Big Daddy Lipscomb, whose death last spring left a big hole in the defensive line. Now they will have to look elsewhere.

Among other inducements for their son's signature, Appleton's family received 38 head of cattle for their Brady, Tex. ranch.

Beaver Local Wrestles To 8th Over Wooster

Beaver Local wrestled to its eighth victory in 10 starts and heavyweight Ken Matheny remained unbeaten through 14 matches in a 29-13 win over Wooster Friday night at Beaver Local.

Matheny pinned McCloran in 1:18 to keep his streak intact. His pin was one of three recorded by the Beavers. Bill Tyehonievich put Paull away in 3:04 of the 127-pound match while Joe Hoppel (145) threw Bittier in 4:39.

Farnum Shasteen (112), Jim Obney (120), Jerry Rambo (138) and Jim Moffett (165) all picked up decisions. Mike Fisher wrestled to a 0-0 draw in the 133-pound match.

McCOMAS IN ACTION. Caught in classic jump shot form, Frank McComas of East Liverpool zeroes in on the target in the Potter-Wellsville game Saturday night. Russians Race Far In Front As Thaw Threatens Olympics

Young Skater Has Taken 4 Gold Medals

By TED SMITS

Associated Press Sports Editor
INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—The Winter Olympics are half way through today, and the Russians already have collected 14 medals while the United States has only one—and it's bronze.

Aside from speculation about how many more medals the Russians might win, the big question today was whether the snow and ice would last for the next six days. A warm south wind—called the Föhn in the Alps—brought a thaw to the Olympic area Sunday.

Snow was mushy, ice wet and the bob run, carefully constructed of blocks of ice, was streaming water.

Six of the Russian medals are gold, and four of them are in the hands of one competitor. Nobody ever has won four gold medals at the Winter Olympics before.

The proud owner is a dimpled blonde speed skater, 24-year-old Lidia Skoblikova.

She completed her feat Sunday by winning the 3,000-meters race after being victorious at the other three distances. Because of the thaw, water squirted from her blades as she skated across the finish.

Valentina Stenina, Lidia's teammate, and Han Pil Haw of North Korea shared second place. Each received a silver medal.

Another ice queen, 22-year-old Sjoukje Dijkstra of Holland, added the Olympic gold medal for figure skating Sunday night to the two world crowns she won in 1962 and 1963.

Regine Heitzer of Austria was second, barely ahead of Petra Burka of Canada.

Eero Maentynranta, 26-year-old Finnish customs official from above the arctic circle, earlier captured his second cross-country skiing gold medal. He took the 15 kilometers after previously winning the 30 kilometers.

His victory brought Finland's total of medals to five, second only to Russia.

Harald Groenningen of Norway was second in the 15 kilometers and Sixten Jernberg of Sweden third.

In the lone Alpine event, Francois Bonlieu, 27-year-old mountain guide from Chamonix, France, captured the men's giant slalom. France is third in the medal race with four.

Kark Schranz took the lead in the standings for the Alpine combined world championship, being awarded for the first time by the International Ski Federation on the basis of Olympic performance.

Thrillers Mark Action In Pro Loop

A Hollywood script writer couldn't have improved on Sunday afternoon's National Basketball Association dramatics.

The day's three-act tableau promised plenty of action before it opened, matching contenders in the league's Eastern and Western divisions in "position play." When the final curtain fell nobody was disappointed. The cast came up with climactic fireworks in each episode.

The plot went something like this:

Act I. Scene: St. Louis—The Hawks, 11 points down late in the first half, overtake crippled Los Angeles in the third period, drop behind again, then come back a second time to win, 107-105, and drop the Lakers from first to third in the West.

Act II. Scene: Baltimore—San Francisco, forced into overtime by an 8-1 Baltimore Bullets closing burst, fires back in the extra period for a 120-118 victory and grabs the Western lead, three percentage points ahead of St. Louis and a half-game up on Los Angeles.

Act III. Scene: Boston—Oscar Robertson scores 48 points and Jerry Lucas flips in a pair of free throws with 11 seconds left in another overtime thriller as Cincinnati nips the Celtics, 119-117, and cuts Boston's Eastern margin to three games.

In all, only six points separated the winners from the losers after 154 minutes of play.

The Lakers lost their fifth straight since Jerry West was sidelined with a broken thumb last Sunday. Two buckets by Bill Bridges put the Hawks ahead to stay with 5:21 remaining. Richie Guerin and Len Wilkins led St. Louis with 22 points apiece.

Saturday Boston defeated Philadelphia 119-111; San Francisco outscored New York 125-106; St. Louis whipped Los Angeles, 113-96, and Detroit edged Baltimore, 112-111.

Rupp Seeks 700th Victory, Wildcats After SEC Lead

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer
Adolph Rupp doesn't much care for cramped old Woodruff Hall in Athens, Ga. Never did. At least not since Feb. 13, 1931.

That's the day he lost his first game as head coach of the Kentucky basketball team. It was at Woodruff Hall. And home-standing Georgia, then as now, was a defensive club. Georgia won, 25-16.

Chances are that the score will be higher than that tonight when Rupp again takes his Wildcats into Woodruff Hall—he once vowed he never would again—but it's likely to be a test of Georgia's defense.

Rupp will be seeking his 700th victory as the Kentucky coach and the Wildcats, ranked fourth in the nation, will be gunning for the Southeastern Conference lead. They share the spot with idle Louisiana State, each at 5-2. Georgia, currently one of the hottest teams in the league, is 4-2.

"We've had the defense all along," Georgia Coach Red Lawson said. "If only our shooters could get hot."

They did Saturday, knocking Tennessee out of the league lead 79-67. Kentucky, at the same time, beat Florida 77-72, running its season record to 15-2. It was the Wildcats' fifth straight in the league after two opening road losses.

The game is one of three involving nationally ranked teams tonight. The others have second-ranked Michigan at Ohio State in an important Big Ten struggle and No. 5 Vanderbilt at Alabama.

Kentucky and Michigan won their only games last week, but Vanderbilt put its high standing in jeopardy with an 81-63 defeat by Auburn. Michigan, 15-1, romped over Michigan State 95-79.

Davidson and DePaul were the only other members of the elite to stumble last week. Davidson, No. 3, was edged by West Virginia 75-73 before rebounding against VMI 129-91 Saturday. DePaul, No. 9, lost to Louisville 83-79 Saturday.

It was the first loss for each and left only top-ranked UCLA the major college unbeaten. UCLA, now 17-0, rolled along with two victories over California Santa Barbara, 107-76 and 87-59.

In other Saturday games involving the top ten, No. 6 Villanova took high-scoring Detroit 79-70. No. 7 Wichita blasted Marquette 100-63 and Chicago Loyola, bouncing back after dipping to No. 10, beat Iowa 85-71.

Dodgers' Outlook For 1964

Alston Hopes Pitchers Get Help From Batters

By WALTER ALSTON

DARTMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—The Dodgers won the 1963 National League pennant and the World Series on pitching. I'm hoping we can give the mound crew a little more help this year at the plate.

And, before we get away from pitching, I'd like to say we're hoping to improve there. No, you can't expect the top three—Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale and Johnny Podres — and our ace reliever Ron Perranoski to do much better but it's in the depth of the staff that I'm concerned.

I'd like to make a reliever out of Bob Miller. He'd give us good protection out there in the bullpen with Perranoski and, down the stretch last year, he showed he likes that sort of work. He was one of our strongest pitchers in August and September and may be a relief star in the making.

But before we can enjoy that luxury we've got to find other starters. Pete Richert, Nick Willhite, Joe Mueller, Phil Ortega, Dick Calmus and Larry Sherry all will be given a shot at front line duty during spring training and perhaps one or two of them will join Sandy, Don and Johnny in the regular rotation. Let's hope so.

With Bill Skowron gone, Ron Fairly would seem to have a clear shot at first but we'll also take a look at third baseman Ken McMullen with a first baseman's mitt. Again, we'd be looking for right-handed punch.

Jacobs Tops Demaret In Sudden Death

By CHARLES MAHER

Associated Press Sports Writer
PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Tommy Jacobs is getting a little bolder and Jimmy Demaret is getting a little older. Which is not only a rhyme but a reason the $50,000 Palm Springs Golf Classic turned out the way it did.

Jacobs won it, beating Demaret on the second hole of a sudden-death playoff Sunday after they finished the regulation 90 holes in 353 strokes each, seven under par.

Demaret, 53, offered this wry salute to his 28-year-old adversary:

"Tommy's a good boy and it was nice he could win it. After all, I've got a lot of years left and he's about through."

Demaret, who hasn't won a PGA tournament in nearly seven years, admitted the 90-hole exercise left him slightly exhausted. In the playoff, he gave away 25 years.

Jacobs, who has a home at nearby Bermuda Dunes Country Club, won the playoff with a nine-inch putt for a par three on the 92nd hole. Demaret, whose drive left him about 40 feet to the left of the green, was lying three when Jacobs holed out.

That ended a tournament that produced so many ties someone suggested it should be renamed the Wembley Open.

There was a tie after every round. It was Charlie Sifford and Jacobs after the first round. Sifford and Doug Sanders after the second round and Sifford and Bob Charles after the third round. Bill Casper and Chuck Courtney were tied going into the fifth round and Jacobs and Demaret, of course, were tied after 90 holes.

Jacobs got $7,500 of the $50,000 purse. Demaret, who plays only five or six tournaments a year, won $4,000.

Charles and Don January finished in a third-place tie at 354, one shot behind Demaret and Jacobs, and got $3,100 each. Courtney and Bob Goaly were another stroke back and picked up $2,450 apiece.

Jones Rates 2-1 Edge In Heavy Fight

Tom McNeely, the big brawler from Arlington, Mass., who was considered all washed up not too long ago, gets another crack at the big time tonight when he meets heavyweight contender Doug Jones at the New York Coliseum.

The strapping 26-year-old former football tackle is a 2-1 underdog to the second-ranked contender from New York. It is a 10-round.

Spitballers Among Six Voted To Hall Of Fame

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—The spitball is legal in the Hall of Fame even if it is out of bounds in organized baseball. Burleigh Grimes and Urban (Red) Faber, two of the last pitchers to throw the spitter legally, were among the six new members named Sunday by the Hall of Fame veterans' committee.

Miller Huggins, the little man who managed the New York Yankees to six pennants in 12 years, and Heinie Manush, the powerful outfielder with a lifetime .330 batting average, also made the grade along with two from the pre-1900 era—John Montgomery Ward and Tim Keefe. Grimes, Faber and Manush are alive.

In some ways Ward was the most remarkable of the group. A jack-of-all-trades as a player, Ward was the only man to collect more than 2,000 hits, 2,151, and also to win more than 100 games, 158, as a pitcher. Ward, active from 1878 to 1894, managed three clubs, acted as president of the Boston Braves, pitched a perfect game for Providence in 1880, organized the Players' Brotherhood and also was the lawyer for the National League.

Ward also set a record of 12 assists for a second baseman that still is in the book.

The addition of the six new men boosted the total membership in the Cooperstown, N.Y., museum to an even 100. The new members were picked by the veterans' committee from players who had been retired at least 20 years.

U.S. Track Picture Doesn't Look Good For '64 Olympics

BOSTON (AP)—If the Boston A.A. Games is any indication, it could be a painful autumn in Tokyo for the United States.

The meet's record-setting performers—Wendell Motley, Noel Carroll and Tom O'Riordan—will bear the colors of their lands to the 1964 Olympics.

Canadian middle distance ace Bill Crothers, a heavy favorite in the 1,000, disappointed the crowd when foul weather prevented his appearance at Boston Garden Saturday night.

And the old reliable among American citizens, hurdler Hayes Jones, announced his retirement right after the Olympics "whether I make the team or not."

Motley, Yale captain from Port au Spain, Trinidad, ran the fastest quarter mile ever indoors with a 48.0 clocking which eclipsed the 22-year-old former standard of 48.2. The man voted the outstanding athlete in the meet had run—and won—a 600-yard race in a dual meet against Dartmouth only a few hours earlier.

Grimes, 70, and Faber, 75, were among the group of four pitchers permitted to continue use of the spitter after it was legislated off the book. Grimes actually was the last. He was active until 1934, retiring with a 270-212 won-lost record. Although he finished up with the Yankees, Grimes earned all but one of his victories in the National League at Pittsburgh, Brooklyn, New York, Boston, St. Louis and Chicago. He lives in Trenton, Mo.

Faber, who works for the Cook County highway department in Chicago, spent his entire career from 1914 to 1933 with the White Sox for whom he won 253 games and lost 211. Although Huggins was a second baseman at Cincinnati and St. Louis from 1904 to 1916 it was as a manager that he was voted into the Hall of Fame. After five years at St. Louis he took over the Yanks in 1918 and managed them until his death at the age of 50 in 1929.

Manush, 62, played in the majors from 1923 to 1939 and spent most of his career in the American League with Detroit, St. Louis, Washington and Boston. He finished up with Brooklyn and Pittsburgh in the National and later managed in the minors, scouted and coached. In 1926 he won the batting title at Detroit with a .378 average.

Keefe, winner of 346 games from 1880 to 1893, has been topped by only six pitchers in the history of the game. In 1896 he won 42 for the New York Giants and in 1888 he won 19 straight, a mark later tied by Rube Marquard of New York in 1912.

Carroll, a native of Ireland, ran a brilliant 1:48.7 anchor half-mile and pushed Villanova to an all-time indoor two-mile relay mark of 7:26.4.

Negroes Eye Store Strike In Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — School boycotts, a buyers' strike and political reprisals have been threatened by civil rights leaders unless the Cleveland Board of Education accelerates integration in the city's schools.

Plans for the three-pronged attack were outlined by leaders of the United Freedom Movement at rallies Sunday.

The civil rights spokesmen warned that the school boycotts would come unless the School Board at its meeting this afternoon speeds up "diffusion" of bus-transported classes of Negro pupils to three predominantly white elementary schools.

Meanwhile, the board indicated it intends to stand by its policy of diffusion of the classes but that it would call for a thorough accounting of just how the policy has been carried out.

"We need greater information, and we don't believe that the United Freedom Movement knows the full story of what has been done either," Ralph A. McAllister, board president, said Sunday night.

He said the board's diffusion policy, adopted last September, was well received at the time.

Harold B. Williams, UFM co-ordinator here and executive secretary of the Cleveland branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, outlined plans for the school boycotts, which he said would come in two phases:

—Withdrawal Thursday of pupils from Hazeldell Elementary School, which transports hundreds of Negro pupils to Brett, Memorial, and Murray Hill schools, the latter the scene of violent demonstrations last week.

A citywide boycott of schools Friday by Negroes and their sympathizers.

Williams said that if there are school boycotts, "freedom schools" would be operated in churches and settlement houses. They would be integrated.

Warning of the buyers' strike and political reprisals, Williams said the UFM was prepared to:

—Enlist the Negro community in a boycott of all downtown department stores.

—Conduct a voter registration campaign aimed at all elected officials considered hostile to the civil rights movement.

—Initiate recall proceedings against many of these officials.

Shortly before Sunday night's rally, 16 persons ended a sit-in demonstration in the Board of Education Building, which was freed by 41 persons at 10 a.m. Friday. The demonstration was sponsored by the UFM.

Ex-Democrat Files

Governor Faces 3-Way Contest In West Virginia

CHARLESTON — Harry Cupp of Elkins, a former Democrat, surprised the politicians Sunday when it was discovered he had filed for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

The filing deadline passed at midnight Saturday with only former Gov. Cecil Underwood of Huntington and newcomer Freda Cavendish of Charleston seeking the GOP nomination.

But in the mail Sunday came Cupp's $225 filing fee and the appropriate forms. He said he mailed it from his Elkins home in time to beat the midnight postmark deadline.

"I was waiting for a Democrat with depth and support to enter the race," he said Sunday night. "When none materialized, I filed for the Republicans."

Cupp, 51, owner of an Elkins furniture store and operator of bottled gas distribution center, said he considers himself a good "compromise candidate."

He ran for the Democratic nomination for State Senate in his district in 1960 and was narrowly defeated by Sen. Hans McCourt.

He said he decided to switch parties only recently because he wanted to buck the current administration and felt unable to do it as a Democrat.

"I think I can help Underwood stir up a fight here in bringing the big issues before the voters," he said.

Other candidates filing at the last minute came to light in Sunday's mail. They included Republican Herman D. Rollins, a Charleston attorney, who is filing for one of the two expiring seats on the State Supreme Court. As of Sunday night he had no primary opposition.

Also in the afternoon mail Sunday came two more Democrats seeking the nomination for agriculture commissioner. Four already had filed.

The new ones are Clarksburg cattle buyer Charles Jenkins and V. L. Martin of Mt. Hope, Fayette County.

Those already in the race were Gus R. Douglass of Grimms Landing, Carroll Hawkins of Ripley, Roscoe Beall of Canaan Valley and State Sen. Roy Parker of Union.

Here is the apparent final lineup for the two major offices for West Virginia's primary election May 12:

U. S. SENATE
DEMOCRAT — Sen. Robert C. Byrd, Sophia; William F. Champe, Clendenen.
REPUBLICAN — Cooper P. Benedict, Lewisburg.

GOVERNOR
DEMOCRAT — Hulett Smith, Beckley; Bonn Brown, Elkins; Julius W. Singleton Jr., Morgantown; Harold G. Cutright, Ivanhoe.
REPUBLICAN — Former Gov. Cecil H. Underwood, Huntington; Mrs. Freda P. Cavendish, Charleston; Harry Cupp, Elkins.

Park Vandals Damage Gear For Ice-Skating

Vandals are going to make ice skating at Thompson Park impossible, Mayor Merrill D. Hall said today in reporting the second case of vandalism.

Vandals entered the upper pavilion Sunday night, smashed down a plastic container, scattered sand bags on the floor, threw some sand into the water and placed benches in the water.

Park Supt. Joseph Walters was to repair the damage today and refill the pavilion with the hope that below-freezing weather will permit skating tonight or Tuesday.

EAST PALESTINE — A valuable setter dog and a newborn litter of six pups were destroyed at 5 a.m. today in a fire in a kennel at the home of Roy Chaplow, operator of Pappy's Place Tavern on the Negley-East Palestine Rd. Bringing Up A Family Younger Children More Creative

By DR. GARRY MEYERS

Some months ago a neighbor dropped in with his 16-month-old daughter. I suggested he try her out on the set of blocks we have which many children visiting us, including our grandchildren, ranging in ages from 2 to 10 years of age, have often enjoyed.

Always I have watched with interest the variety of creative fun so many children have had with these blocks, sometimes for hours at a stretch.

When the father put several of these blocks on the floor and placed one block on top of another, his little girl attempted to do likewise. But her efforts were very awkward and did not last long.

TWO MONTHS later, the father tried her out again with the same blocks. He didn't do a thing with the blocks, but she put three blocks on top of one another. She even carefully stood up a cylinder about 6 inches long and placed a small cubical block on it, without toppling it over.

When she tried to put on another block everything toppled down. She must have spent 15 minutes trying, without help, to build with these blocks.

I asked her parents whether she had been playing with blocks at home. It seems she had not, though one may guess that she has had some experience trying to put one or more objects on top of another.

What amazed me was the obvious gain this youngster had made in just two months in motor control and in creative building with these blocks. I judge that she had demonstrated comparably more gain in learning than the average college student does in a whole year or more.

Reflecting on these observations and observations made when my own children and grandchildren were very young, I concluded that the easiest time to see marked evidence of gains in creative learning is when the youngster is under 3, 4 or 5 years of age and he does this learning without being taught.

Voting Slated Over Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bipartisan forces backing the civil rights bill test their strength today as the House starts considering amendments to the measure.

Both sides have been talking since debate opened Friday. Now it's time for voting, with the rest of the week being set aside to work on proposed changes in the 10-part bill.

President Johnson and Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., have predicted the bill will come through the process without being seriously weakened.

That there will be plenty of amendments offered was made clear during the two days of general debate. Southerners are unhappy with every provision and members from other parts of the country have doubts about some of them.

The heaviest fire will undoubtedly be directed at proposals banning racial discrimination in employment, public accommodations and federally aided programs. But the various sections will be open to amendment in the order in which they appear in the bill, which brings the one dealing with voting rights first under attack.

This provision, mainly amending existing laws, is designed to speed up court action on voting cases and to ensure that any voter qualification standards are applied equally to whites and Negroes.

Intruder Hits City Church, Gets Nothing

An intruder ransacked the pastor's office at the First Church of the Nazarene Saturday night or early Sunday, but apparently left empty-handed, police reported.

The burglar entered the pastor's office on the second floor by removing the pins holding the door on its hinges, officers said. He ransacked a desk and then pried open a filing cabinet and forced open a small safe inside, police said. However, officers said nothing was taken, as far as could be determined.

The method of entry was not learned, but a door on the north side of the building was found standing open, police said. There were no marks of forcible entry around the door, police said.

The burglary was discovered by Wells Conkle, custodian, when he opened the building at St. Clair Ave. and Walnut St. Sunday morning. The entry was timed between 8:30 p.m. Saturday and 8:39 a.m. Sunday.

The dryers in a coin-operated laundry were hit twice by thieves Saturday night and Sunday, yielding loot that totaled $7 to $9 in dimes, police said.

The theft was reported at the Econ-O-Wash Laundry at Pennsylvania Ave. and Elizabeth St., owned by Paul Conkle, 2109 Michigan Ave.

In a theft about 11 Saturday night, the intruder forced open the doors of six machines by breaking the locks, taking the dimes, police said. In a previous case Friday night, about $3 to $4 was taken. Two dryers were forced open between 6:30 and midnight Sunday, but no loss was listed.

Carl Pearson, 466 Mulberry St., told police an intruder took a wedding and engagement ring set from the glove compartment of his auto while it was parked on Mulberry St. between 12:30 and 1:02 a.m. Sunday. The rings were valued at $200, he said.

The thief tore out the bottom of the glove compartment to get the rings Pearson said.

Junior Editors Quiz on SCIENCE

QUESTION: When water evaporates, is it lost?

ANSWER: We often think of water evaporating into nothingness; yet actually water is never lost. Instead, it changes form and moves from place to place, all of it having come originally from the sea. These points will be clear when you study the illustration, showing how water moves in a kind of circle, called "the water cycle."

First, when warmed by the sun, water rises from the ocean, in the form of invisible "water vapor." When this meets cooler air, it condenses in the form of minute droplets which appear to us as fog or clouds. These are blown far over the land and when they get too heavy to be held aloft, fall as fresh water rain, the salts having been left behind in the sea. Rain soaks into the ground, causing crops to grow, and building up an underground reservoir, which supplies wells and springs. This is the "ground water," its surface being the "water table." Other amounts of rain run down in the form of brooks which turn into streams and rivers and finally return to the sea. Much water lies for a long time underground; yet a great deal is drawn up by plants which radiate water vapor into the air, helping to keep the water cycle moving.

FOR YOU TO DO: The next time it rains, you will see the water cycle in active movement. Trace what is happening to the rain. How much is sinking into the ground, how much running off to join some brook or river?

Sheila Julka of Fresno, Calif., wins today's grand prize of a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review and you too may win a set.

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Monday, Feb. 3, the 34th day of 1964. There are 332 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1908, the U.S. Supreme Court handed down its decision in the famous Danbury (Conn.) Hatters case. It held that the boycott by United Hatters of North America was a violation of the antitrust laws as a combination in restraint of trade.

On this date:

In 1690, the Massachusetts colony began issuing its own bills of credit in defiance of British authority.

In 1781, British General Cornwallis began his pursuit of Colonial troops through North Carolina to Virginia.

In 1924, the 28th President of the United States, Woodrow Wilson, died at his home in Washington, D.C.

In 1944, a U.S. Navy surface force bombarded Paramushiro in the first such attack against Japanese home territory in World War II.

Ten years ago — At least 350 Hindu pilgrims were trampled to death in India while trying to perform a religious ceremony in the River Ganges.

Five years ago—Sixty-five persons died when an American Airlines Electra turbo-prop plane crashed in New York's East River after overshooting a landing in fog at La Guardia Airport.

One year ago—Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall ordered a study of helium contracts which the General Accounting Office said would mean unjustified profits of $155 million for gas and oil companies.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Carl Does His Own Jekyll And Hyde

CARL BETZ
Dr. Stone of "Donna Reed Show"
At the Hollywood Stage Society production of Tennessee Williams' "The Night of the Iguana" recently a patron was overheard whispering to his wife, "That's Dr. Stone, but you wouldn't know him."

He was referring to Carl Betz, who for six years has been the reliable pediatrician and faithful TV husband to Donna Reed. Carl still is all of those things, but on four nights a week during the past two months he also has been portraying the same unfrocked and gin-soaked clergyman which Richard Burton just finished doing in the movie version of "Iguana."

"I UNDERSTAND," says Carl, "they had to tack a happy ending on to the movie. That town of Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, where they shot it must be quite a place. Someone told me there are only 8,500 people, but the town has its own Alcoholics Anonymous branch."

Stage Society is doing a sell-out business with the "Iguana" which Carl stars in with Mala Powers and Helena Nash, and tickets are sold into March.

I didn't see Patrick O'Neal in the Broadway production, and no one has seen Burton's portrayal of the Rev. Mr. Shannon except Liz Taylor, but I'm sure neither O'Neal nor Burton would have to give points to Carl.

In a role demanding an almost constant state of high emotion, Carl performs it with explosive yet believable pitch.

CARL'S AGENT, of course must bite his nails at just the thought of his client's expending all of that energy for a paltry $40 a week. The only act of Carl's which has kept the agent sane was his signing for another year with Donna.

"Yes, I signed up again last month, after another inner struggle with myself. I didn't want to do it. Oh, I'm not mad at anyone, but this is the sixth year for Dr. Stone. Gosh!" he exclaims, as if he had just been stabbed.

He signed again because his agent convinced Carl that a seventh year of Dr. Stone can make Carl (and maybe even the agent) financially independent.

"It's something awfully nice to think about, isn't it?" adds Carl, his fever suddenly subsiding.

I ASKED HOW he thought he would endure another year of the confinement and long hours requiring in filming the TV series and, more important, how he could keep Dr. Stone from looking bored to death.

"Well, one way is by doing something on the side like 'Iguana.' You can see I'm not doing it for the money. But I get rid of the vapors in my brain this way. I don't have to keep my shirt buttoned up."

In "Iguana," Carl's tropical costume is a pair of disheveled duck pants and a Belafonte shirt (opened down to the fourth rib). Anyone walking into Dr. Stone's neighborhood dressed this way would be arrested on sight.

"IN A WEEKLY SERIES," Carl continues, "it also is important to attain what Marlon Brando once called 'controlled improvisation.' This is the art of making it look as if you were completely casual about the whole thing."

Anyone watching Carl in the Donna Reed Show knows he has accomplished this feat. And that's why the gentleman mentioned in the bringing here said, "You wouldn't know him," when he spotted him in "Iguana."

Despite the compunctions Carl may have at heading into a seventh year as TV's Dr. Stone, he's practical and smart enough to know he's better off than before.

"I MADE pictures at 20th Century-Fox for a year, but the executive heads there couldn't make up their minds if I was a hero or a heavy," he recalls, and such indecision didn't put him in a very big bargaining position.

Carl was married to Gloria Stone Martin (sister of actress Nina Talbot) last December, he knows he will work next year and his agent is happy. What more could he want?

Group At Hookstown Convenes At Chester

The Women's Missionary Society of the Hookstown Free Methodist Church met at the home of Miss Emma Lyon of Chester Wednesday.

Devotions and business were in charge of Mrs. Milo Smith, president. She also conducted a Bible quiz. A prize was won by Mrs. Herschel Howard.

Gifts were presented to Miss Lyon and Avery Gillespie, who were celebrating their birthdays. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Gillespie, Mrs. Roy Lyon and Mrs. Oris Cundiff. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Gillespie and Miss Lyon.

Salem Theft Probed

LISBON — Deputy sheriffs are investigating a burglary discovered at 2:44 a. m. today at the Lowry Supply Co. on E. State St., Salem, in which $40 was taken. The intruders broke the hasps off garage doors to gain entrance, then pried open a steel cabinet to take the cash, according to Deputy Herma Wellman.

91 Saved When Ferry Rams Rocks In Italy

NAPLES, Italy (AP)—A Naples-to-Ischia ferry with 80 passengers and a crew of 11 crashed into rocks 500 yards off the island of Procida today in a dense fog.

All aboard were saved. The ferry, which has carried thousands of tourists to the island of Ischia, was sinking. The rocks ripped a 15-foot hole in the bow.

Every available boat from Procida and Ischia rushed to the scene. Within an hour the ferry's passengers and crew had all been taken ashore.
